“In this world of sin and sorrow there is always something to be thankful for; as for me, I rejoice that I am not a Republican.”

Editor Jacob Horst

I say that this year should be the year that things begin to happen. It's been roughly three years since the collapse of the AFP and despite the Fascist history of America, the tens of thousands of BlueShirts, SilverShirts, KhakiShirts, and WhiteShirts, there is nothing around for us except neurotic self-proclaimed BrownShirts and Octogenarian Libertarians playing Fascist.

What has to be done to get Fascism moving again in America? Is not the time ripe? The Europeans have beat us to it, the National Anarchists and Bolsheviks have beaten us here. Where are you Blackshirts?

This year has already proven quite interesting with the assassination attempt of Gabrielle Giffords by one Jarred Lee Loughner. This man was an incoherent psychopath who went on a rampage not for traditional political reasons, but because of the aspergers and AIDS that is politics in the 21st century – narratives of mindwipes, conspiracies, truth movements and libertarian stupidity. It is a sign of the decline. We will see many more acts of senseless, ugly violence as society hurtles towards its doom. This is not necessarily a bad thing but we are to have violence then it must be completely different to this. We need a violence that comes out of ruthless organization and purpose and therefore accepts the responsibility of violence

The rest is old hat; A3P has been getting out into the streets, the National Anarchists have been doing it for a while now, but they are not doing anything. They are not movements - if they all faded away tomorrow, they would leave nothing behind. A revolution that dies with a revolutionary is not a revolution. That will change this year! I have faith it will and faith moves mountains.

What we need is identity. Our Britannic comrades have the BUF, that draws a sort of power. We too need to discover our tradition. We need greater knowledge of the past militant movements in the United States, by learning from them they can show us how to do it again.

2011 is going to be a productive year! Not only for Reakcion! But for all of us in general. To help this drive I am setting you, the reader a homework assignment for the year. If you do not do these assignments you are a pathetic wretch and traitor to America.

1. You must contribute at least 5 articles to Reakcion or
2. Post 3 videos on YouTube promoting our ideology.
or
3. Start a journal of your own.
We're going to get moving soon
Don't be left behind!

Annuit Coeptis!

What is our Manifest Destiny?

-Jacob Horst

We no longer have the vast frontiers to conquer that our forefathers had. This is a given. But the means are worthless unless we can identify the ends. Let's fast forward and say we've established our Fascist government in the USA. What next? Deport the illegals? Stabilize the economy and repudiate the debt? End poverty? Then what? Do we sit around gleefully patting each other on the backs whilst chanting, "We won! We won?" The struggle does not end with Revolutionary victory but opens up the doors for even greater struggles. And we all know that the only way to build strength is through constant struggle be it military conflicts, economic competition, cultural wars, etc.

Since the end of our Great Crusade in WWII we have enjoyed unprecedented power and wealth, which virtually went unchallenged since the fall of the Soviet Bolsheviks. We're now tied up in a war that we're finished in and another war that we should not have been involved with in the first place! I'm not going to say that war is totally unnecessary on the contrary -it may be an option. Perhaps we should reconsider the policies of Teddy Roosevelt and maybe begin re-colonizing the south pacific islands?

Maybe we ought to consider establishing total hegemony over North America by bringing Canada completely under our fold to pool resources and bring us one step closer to economic autarky. Besides we need to re-invent the Heroic culture of our day. The veterans in the world wars and before were the heroes the youth looked up to, now they idolize their degenerate celebrities, Toby Keith, Jason Aldean, Lil' Wayne, The Game, Lady Gaga, Katy Perry, Keshia, Justin Bieber, etc.

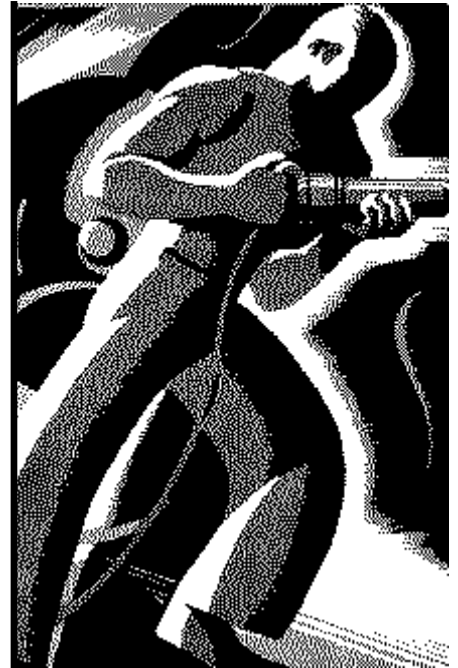

Space! Space exploration does not need too much justification, it is in the human nature to explore, what is our goal there? Colonization of other planets? It would be great to see an American flag on another planet, forget the moon! It is too easy. Space is the final frontier

But before we go on our post Revolutionary ventures we need to establish a national culture, we need to restore National Fraternity be it through war, the centralized state, etc.

Americans are still divided in their mentality, The Yankee and the Southerner are still different and even more so when compared the East and Western coasts.

This is what Fascism has to offer our Country, a way to truly unify our country and provide something greater than the dog-eat-dog "Get what you can, and get fat" mentality of liberal capitalism.

We must set higher standards than the primitive profit motivation that has destroyed our country. We need actual goals that have greater historical meaning so that we can continue to forge our will through history. If America completely collapses what accomplishments will have to show the world? Yes we won a couple of wars, but what did we do with the results of victory? Must we lay in our graves knowing we lived in a dying decadent Empire and we did nothing to make it great again? What did you do to change things? Ask yourself that question, it should inspire action if you're a real Patriot.

preservation of workplaces for national citizens in the face of massive immigration fed by the border-anarchistic EU should hurt the emotionally-sensitive leaders of nation-states and prompt them to deem those actions as "xenophobic, racist, National Socialistic." Be sure not to delve too deep into national conservatism—it might trigger the alarm of the Antifa's quintessential justice bells. No more EU credibility for you, Mr. Sarkozy.

Let us overview the fundamental traits of general conservatism. As with almost any conservative current in the world (liberal, national, monarchist, etc.) the founding principles of organized conservatism strongly advocate a state that seeks to employ public or private resources into the general guideline of social order. This social order, by extension, awards a set of responsibilities and powers to law enforcement agencies, civilian organizations such as labor unions and civil rights groups, political institutions, the state apparatus and the armed forces. In other words, the necessary institutions to represent both governmental and civilian interests in a coordinated, stable state, be it democratic, national syndicalist/fascist/state socialist.

Towlheads and Mosques

Every single day on every trash piece of network television there is some liberal making fun of Christianity or Christmas or whatever – anything cultural of European American origin they smash all the time, and they think they are all really smart doing it.

The reason they do it is because they are cowards; Christianity ceased to have a spine in this country a long time ago. Today every right wing con artist televangelist lines up to kiss the feet of any liberal they can find so as not to be called bad names. Fine, their fault for being weak.

But then along comes a horrible backwards ass religion which stones rape victims, mutilates people, executes people who engage in homosex, attacks us every day, and hates everything liberals stand for, and then all of a sudden we have to respect culture. Bullshit.

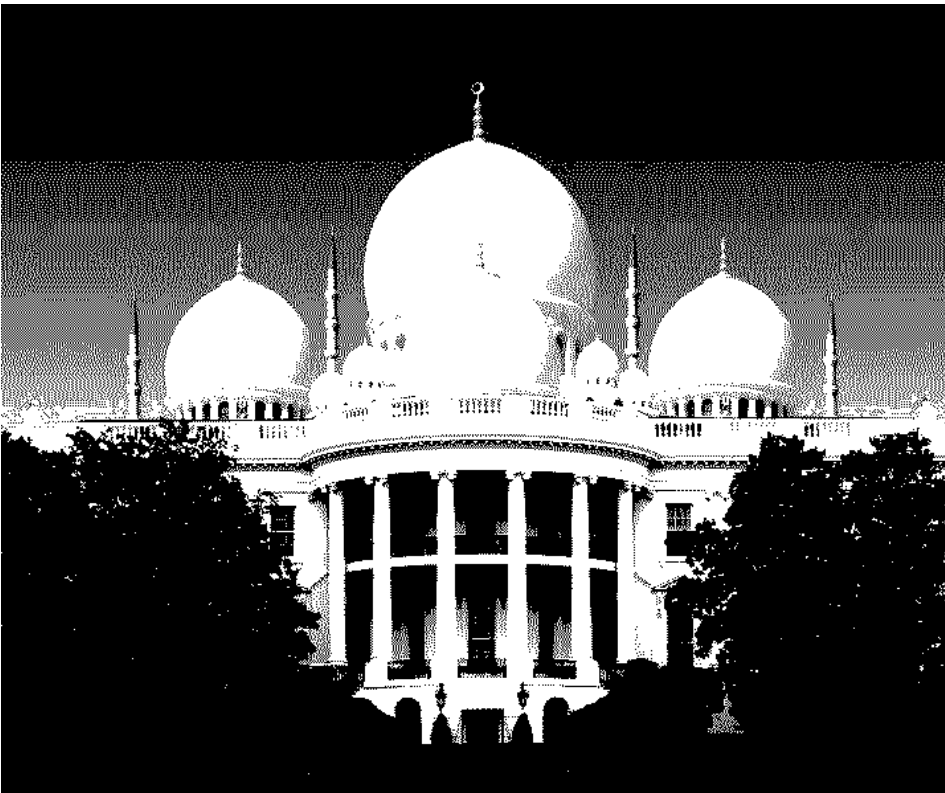

Then a pastor is in the news again and he holds a trial and execution of the Koran, and some Americans join him in the burning of the book. It is just a book, which only Muslims find sacred – and to a liberal it's material composition should be no different to that of a bathroom paper. – but to this, every liberal in the world goes apeshit 'OH MY GOD a preacher is being islamaphobic in Florida!' and the world cries out.

They say they oppose Koran burning and want it illegalised because it is against American values of pluralism and tolerance. That's not true, The reason they attack people like Terry Jones is that he isn't going to fight back, or do anything, like all the rest of the gutless wimpy Christians in America. A Muslim would.

What it really comes down to is fear, how else can you explain it? Everything liberals do is based on fear of Muslim violence.

All the 'tolerance', 'Islamaphobia', and so on only exists to protect Muslims, no other group has these rights. It is ok to offend any other group (and no, nobody cared about Jews either), you can take a crucifix and put it in a tub of urine and call it 'piss christ' and that is called art which is shown in America's most prestigious galleries. What would the reaction be if an artist did that to the Koran and it was praised by the media? Some guy simply burning the thing on his own property invited the indignation of the entire global liberal elite.

When the Taliban took over Afghanistan they carried out a mass campaign to eradicate everything that wasn't Islamic – Blowing up huge ancient Buddhist statues across that country. Where was this global liberal world elite to even speak out against the destruction of these priceless millennia old artifacts? The so called defenders of religious sensibilities...

So yea, again, that happens no one cares. (And I should clarify we shouldn't, who cares about Buddhists or other religions? But when considering the mind of a liberal the cognitive dissonance should be obvious.)

But when Islam starts building a mosque overlooking the site of the 9/11 attack and some Americans have the audacity to oppose the project liberals are disgusted at the nature of this move and say that it is against the constitution – a constitution that was drafted to defend the American people and allow them to resist oppression. Islam is doing here what it did with the statues in Afghanistan, it is a rising and growing religion in peace and war – it seeks to promote itself at the expense of others and they are right to do so – it is natural law.

But the thing is we are completely handicapped by our liberal elites who attack that attitude wherever they see it – when it is in us. Take the recent assassination of Osama Bin Laden we carried out.

This news of the death of an Islamic terrorist responsible for the deaths of thousands of Americans on 9/11 – could it be said we had a right to be pleased at this? Just from the point of view of a liberal? You might think so, but when the news was greeted with a mass outpouring of public happiness Liberals were disgusted. They thought it was 'disturbing' that Americans still engage in patriotism and revel in the death of a human being. Their suggestion was that we should be quiet, not let emotions affect us, and move on.

Who were these sniveling vipers to stand against the celebration of bravery and capability of American Navy Seals in the crushing of America's enemies? Such people should have been brought out into the celebrations and strung up outside the Whitehouse gates in front of the cheering crowds for talking such dribble! How do they get such a mentality? Well it is like this:

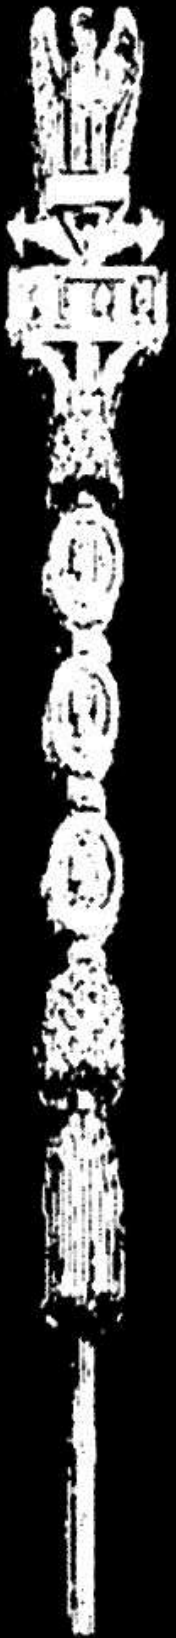

Islam is like a violent and unpredictable roommate. This guy invites hookers, and beats them.

This guy gets in fights, spits on your favorite carpet, sometimes breaks your CDs and constantly demands money from you. This guy is violent, and you're a gentle nerd. Maybe you would've wanted to kick him in the balls, but not only do you know that you'd have your ass handed back to you, but that this guy would invite a bunch of his friends, beat you up, then call the police and tell that you started it, while you're rolling on the floor with a broken nose. So you don't do anything. You don't criticize his behavior. You don't dare to tell him to wash the dishes after dinner. You don't dare to say that his favorite football team sucks. You're thinking about your safety.

That is pretty much the situation the west is in now, or at least that sums up the liberal mentality, except it is worse than this. They know they have made a mistake - deep down. Too many Muslims have come into the west and they are not so stupid as to believe that if America defends itself to the minimum level it will create ethnic conflict within western democracies. America invades Iraq = European Muslims will carry out suicide attacks, this is fact.

What they fear is not some terrorist in some cave. We have drones that hunt them – they die like faggots. Osama Bin Laden? We made him our bitch, we shot him in his own home and dumped him in the sea. What liberals really fear is not some terrorist attack, it is their own social experiment or what they call the 'silent majority' of peaceful Muslims which will inevitably become the seeds of a civil war within the west. If we don't change what we are doing now. I say, If Muslims want war, fuck em:

"I come in peace. I didn't bring artillery. But I'm pleading with you, with tears in my eyes: If you fuck with me, I'll kill you all." - General James N. Mattis to the tribal warlords

The Fascist Virtues

are tenacity at work;
the extreme parsimony of gesture and word;
physical and moral courage;
absolute loyalty in personal relations;
firmness in decisions;
affection for comrades;
hatred for enemies of the Revolution and the Fatherland;
unlimited faithfulness to an oath that has been taken;
respect for tradition, and at the same time
the desire of accomplishment for the morrow.

THE CULTURE WAR

Part One

-Jacob Horst

I hate emo kids. I really hate emo kids. I hate preppy kids, scene kids, punks, goths, thugs, whatever. Why? They're all the same. Every last one of them. Fundamentally speaking. What does it all boil down too? Vanity, Conformity, Materialism. Whichever group it may be they're all rushing to Hot Topic, Hollister, American Eagle, Zumes (sp) Cow Pokes, etc purchasing the clothes that their social group demands to be worn, and for the most part those stores are owned by the same conglomeration of Capitalists. In short, they're all controlled by the system and they often hate each other despite the fact their style of clothing and musical interests overlap consistently.

Yes an emo fag may like panic at the disco but the fag is still a bit fond of lil wayne, justin beiber, whatever fucktard that's been marketed right, and as far as clothing goes you'll see anyone wearing a pair of Vans or one of the gangster style flat caps... Same piercings. I really wish bad things would happen to these people. Their superficial with no sense of creative thinking and despite the fact they talk shit about each other and demand conformity from each other they're all the same. They're all obsessed with how they look and they're all feeding into the same machine.

It's even worse in the so called "counter/rebellious" cultures in America, the hippys, goths, emos, and punkers. Because even though they're all bitching about how fake everyone is they're still buying in the very thing they hate. They're all conditioned to think they hate the cops and the government but they really don't care at all. They're all apathetic to everything around them and they either get caught up in their nihilism and run to drugs and die from needle aids or they get over it and grow up and make a living like every other last man in the country, loosing their capacity to dream and think.

Sure they hate preppy white kids but at the same time they probably come from the same middle/upper class neighbourhood as their counterparts. Why the hell is self-victimisation and depression a fucking fashion statement? If I want to make a fashion statement I'd use whatever inspires fear, war, and hate! Ya know, something that looks cool and actually has meaning. I'm thinking about what we should do to make this pseudo-plastic fags suffer. I hate the preppy kids because I think they're the most lazy out of all of them.

They're apathy runs so deep they don't even make the botched attempt to rebel like the tear/razor/van wearing fags. They allow themselves to be moulded by the system and for the most part they feel out of place if they're not. I think the biggest problem I have with them is mostly the males in that clique. I hate seeing those douchebags wearing flip flops with a polo Hollister shirt and plaid shorts with a pair of those aviator cop sunglasses topped off with a tan and diamond ear rings. They're the worst. Their just as vanity inlaid as women and even though they're probably playing sports every now and then or in the extreme case they're jocks it's still the effeminacy of how much effort they put in their looks plus there is the homosexual undertones of the jock subculture. Sports are fine I just hate the god-damn glamour thrown into them! These types deserve public canings but first I think they should be arrested as their in the peak of their douche bag modes. This also applies to the guidos in Jersey, cos the only difference between a prep and a guido is one is white the other is Latin or Italian.

I think all of these people should have their tongues cut out and then be forced fed either castor oil laced with gasoline or salt, or a combo of the three. I think the preppy and scene kids should keep their tongues during canings. I want to hear them cry and then I want to see them try to comfort each other so I can laugh at all the lovey dovey clichés they spit out. I also think they should be shaved bald and have fat inserted into them. I think the emos punks and goths should all be lumped together on an island just to see them try to not conform to each other. Then we should drop mustard gas on them and ignore them so they can act overly melodramatic as they die because they'll try to get the most attention in those moments.

I think we should counter all these fags with the Iron Youth. The Iron Youth actually believes in something and has a sense of morals and directions. We are a cult of discipline, heroism, determination, patriotism, strength, valour, honour, pride, need I go on? We're probably the only true counter-culture in the world because of what we represent, the fact we are trying to destroy a system so we can replace it with authoritarianism and nationalism. Some might tell us that based on the arguments I've presented we're still fundamentally just like everyone else because we have our sense of style and music that we binds us all together, well at least its the most original plus it has an actual sense of spirit.

I salute Boyd Rice. I could care less what anyone says, the Iron Youth started in America with Boyd Rice, Blood Axis, Current 93, etc. Who remembers "The Abraxas Foundation?" So while we may conform to something at least we have a genuine intellectual and philosophical foundation that transcends into a code of conduct and lifestyle that isn't self-destructive or nihilistic. The left, the right, -the hippys, the preps, -the rednecks, the emo fags- they can all say whatever the hell they want about us but it doesn't matter, why? Because we are an Ethos!

American Kinfolk

-Horst

We're not native to our country in the grand historical scheme but for now we are, yes we did immigrate to this continent and exterminated the natives but the fact is we are now natives to this country because of how our culture has diversified from our European counterparts the Revolutionary War sealed this, the blood of those original immigrants and their descendents are so irreversibly tied into this land that we have made it completely ours through war, blood, sweat, and tears.

The fact is that 'whitey' has more in common with the African-Americans and the real native Americans then we do the Hispanics that flock into our nation.

I take a Spenglerian view on race, that is a non-material and non-biological perspective. The idea is that all ethnicities in a nation that share a common outlook and culture become a collective "race" based on shared history. Basically, the African Americans, White Americans, and all the ones born in this nation become a single "American Race" of course this is speaking strictly from a cultural perspective. The Native Americans also fall into this category because, sadly, we have usurped them as the dominant culture and they have accepted our culture (more or less.)

What does this patchwork of ethnicities that make up the American Race have in common? Similar taste in foods and music, the language, etc things we do not share with the Chicano hordes.

1. Because of all the Irish slaves brought to America and the forced breeding of Irish and African slaves the majority of whites in America have some African blood while the Africans have some White blood.

2. Because the African culture of the slaves was virtually eradicated they have no true connection to their motherland, what culture they did create was an occidental parody of generic African culture so whether or not the black or white bigots like they are an offshoot of western culture.

3. They have spilled their blood in virtually every conflict the US has been involved with. This coupled with the fact they were slaves means that both spiritually and physically their blood and sweat has dripped into the soil of our nation and helped build it to its status as a world power.

4. Repatriation is just stupid because they would not be able to completely assimilate into contemporary African culture. Besides, what part of Africa could they be dumped off at? Liberia? (this is not the early 19th century!) Besides, repatriation of the Blacks would only provide millions of new recruits for Islamic-extremists, and Marxists.

Please bear with me because some of what I am going to say may sound a bit unorthodox. But without further adieu here it goes.

The first three bulletins are something that the Blacks must learn and accept otherwise this plan would be hell to get off of the ground.

I'm a bit of a fan of distributionism and I feel that a state institution that teaches agriculture could help the Blacks in the city assimilate into mainstream culture. This will probably come as a big culture shock to them as most of them are used to urban areas but it will in turn help the ones confined to ghettos become productive citizens. Plus that's more crop we can use for food and bio-fuels. Why stop there?

If needed Job Corp or conscription for the ones bellow the poverty line could be mandatory. I also feel that affirmative action should be dropped. If they want to be treated like everyone else they must not have any types of perks that place their ethnicity ahead of the labor competition. It is a bit of a "tough love" trick and it could turn hairy, however I feel the agricultural initiative could help soften the blow.

The New American Art

Sometime in the future when the liberals are all dead and we have won, we will look back at the past and remember what that thing, that vision, was, that moved us. Hitler once said that "to understand National Socialism you must understand Wagner" – I imagine it will be our own Iron chancellor who will say "You Can't understand American Fascism unless you understand Taxi Driver". It is true.

It was Richard Wagner who created that vision of a mythic Germany of the past in which they saw their future. If Americans are going to live again we need our own vision – and that vision is going to be one that connects to the most angry and dispossessed generation in American history and tells them how they can be strong .

We need to start rejuvenating American culture with romantic nostalgia of our nation's past achievements. We need to re-glorify the old Nietzschean individuality of our Founding Fathers to the Filibusters.

The only way we can harden the American youth into Iron is we give them something to take tribal pride in, something to relight the fires of patriotism in an energetic way.

We must be a cult of rebellion because our ideas are not in power. As we discussed in the first issue of Reaktion! The Capitalists are just the same as the Communists, the left and the right are the same damn thing, what we need to do is emphasize this point: we are only the true patriots because the Republicans are traitors for sending business over seas and selling out the majority of the population to the rich and Chinks.

We also are the only force that can attack the whole rotten system in its entirety left, right, socialist, capitalist, anarchist, libertarian, whatever - they all agree about this society, that is should be rotten! That is why we must attack them, because by doing this we directly appeal to the youth of the Nation. What nobody understands is that all the disposed young Americans who are strangers in their own towns and who have resisted indoctrination (which is most of them), all of them are our army, we just need to get to them.

It goes without saying that the New Deal was a much milder form of the fascism instituted by Il Duce, but both systems tilted the balance sharply towards the state and away from society. In all of them, government gained power over business and other private interests in the name of and for the people, with the leaders seeking to impose a philosophy of life that subordinated the individual to the needs of the community – as defined by the state. Overall, the New Deal was designed to pull those parts of the American economy not already controlled by the federal government into its grasp for the purposes of central planning. FDR established an alphabet soup of new federal agencies with the power to regulate specific sections of the economy for the short term goal of to raising wages and prices to push consumer “purchasing power.” FDR made several stabs at establishing corporatism.

The first was the National Industrial Recovery Act of 1933 which was a direct attempt to cartelize industries and unions just like the Italian model, but the courts shot the effort down. The National Recovery Administration later tried the same thing using a different vocabulary. The NRA sought to organize industry into a federally supervised trade association. The term “Code Authority” was substituted for corporation, but it was essentially the same thing. These code authorities had the power to regulate production, quantities, qualities, prices, distribution methods, and other aspects of production and trade. It eventually ran afoul of anti-trust laws and had to be disbanded.

“There seems to be no question that (Mussolini) is really interested in what we are doing,” the president said, “and I am much interested and deeply impressed by what he has accomplished and by his evidenced, honest purpose in restoring Italy.”

“America in the present effort under Roosevelt has entirely abandoned the old “libertarianism” and adopted much of the policy advocated in this book (The Greater Britain). Although the president was vested with dictatorial powers it is still doubtful whether he can overcome the problems confronting him without the support of an organised fascist movement. The size and resources of America make the problem immeasurably easier than in the case of most European countries. He may, therefore, be largely successful in applying fascist policy without fascism in America.” – Oswald Mosley, 1934, ‘The Greater Britain’ - pg 110

Loughner's Final Laugh

A perfect combination of drugs, neurosis, and a mind that never stopped turning through conspiracy theories and a misunderstood perception of Nietzsche's ubermensch are the perfect ingredients for bloodshed.

Loughner (born 9/10/88) attempted the assassination of Gabrielle Giffords and the successful assassination of Judge John Roll as well as 5 others and topped off with 14 wounded.

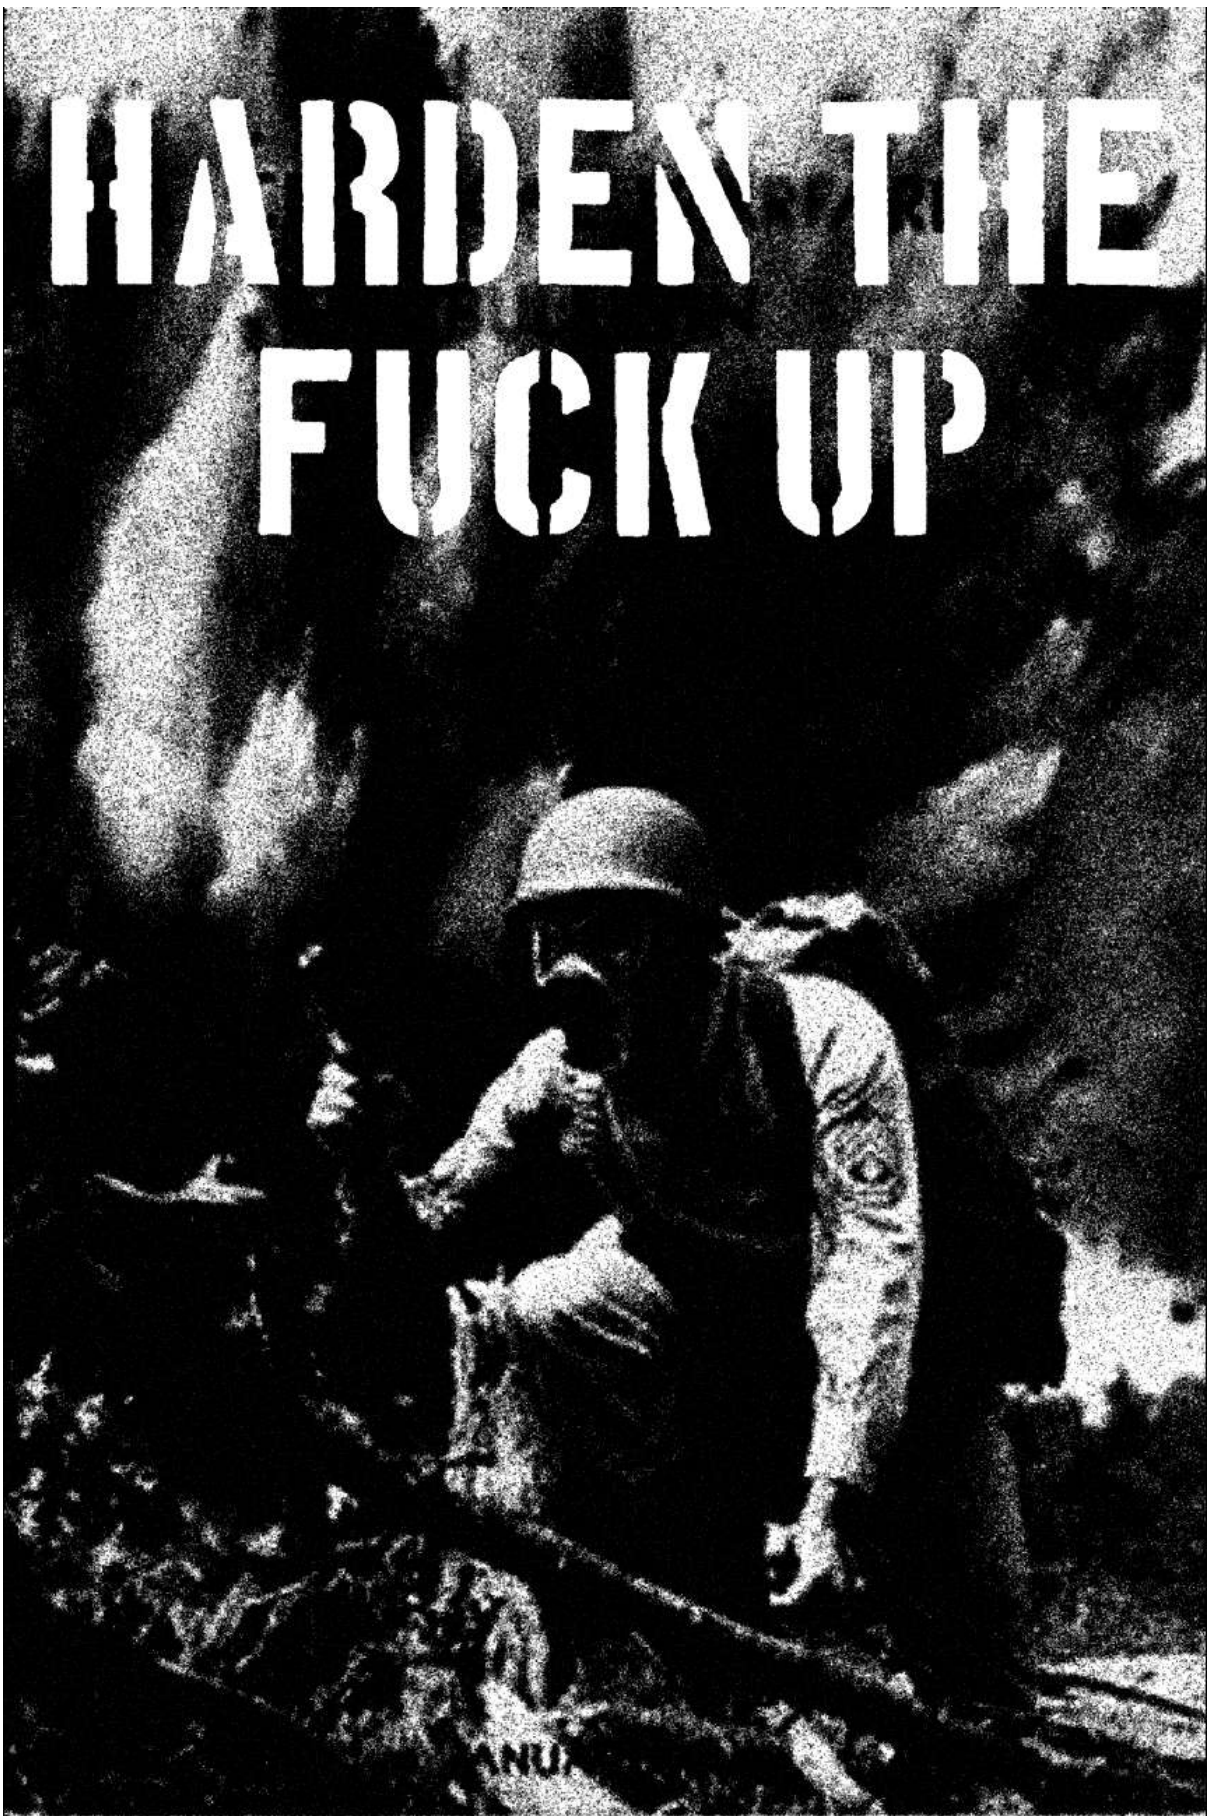

The views of this deranged character have been widely speculated and he has been pinned to the Far Left, the Far Right, and even the Third Position. He has been seen burning American flags on youtube as well as citing the communist manifesto as one of his favorite books, but on the other hand he has also cited Ayn Rand's The FountainHead as another favorite along with Mein Kampf. Plus his reactionary calls to return to the constitution can easily paint him into the far right.

However throw in conspiracy theories and now he is on the outskirts of life in general. Many have speculated that he had ties with National Anarchist movements but where is the proof? He was a loan gunner and we'll never know why he did what he did, just like Eric Harris and Dylan Klebold, Just like Lee Harvey Oswald and Charles Whitman, they probably didn't know why either, at least Whitman didn't before the shooting he complained of completely irrational thoughts and had no clue what drove him to kill. Perhaps Loughner was the same, many people around him noticed a dramatic -almost random mood change perhaps it was a random bio-chemical disruption? Maybe his frustration with the answer Giffords gave him in response to his question opened the pandora's box of a mind set that completely destroyed the thin line between genius and insanity an his nihilistic world view became clear -if no one can understand the conspiracy that his controlling and oppressing them what is the point of fighting for their liberation? What better way to shake the mindless masses at their foundations by killing a leader (who couldn't answer your philosophical question sufficiently) they worship?

Loughner was a thinking person in an unthinking society. Perhaps his views were unsavory and distasteful to some of us but at least he was capable of abstract thought. He was the Anti-Matter of a Materialistic environment. The two simply could not live together, a reaction was inevitable and now he is trapped in isolation forever. Perhaps he wanted this? Some men cannot assimilate into the world of decadence and conformity. Some just want to depart it completely, some want to depart it and leave a statement even though they know no one will understand them. So what do you they do? They give the masses the only thing they do understand: Death. And that was Loughner's last laugh.

HARDEN THE FUCK UP

INSURGENCY

Tips and Survivalism

Alright Insurgents, when the day comes where America's decline is imminent it is crucial that we ensure our own survival so that when the smoke clears we can rise up, hang the traitors, and lead the people to rebuild the country. Here are some tips on building your own bunker for bad weather, Chinese/Russian/UN occupation, Civil War, Nuclear War, etc.

Use bricks or concrete to build the walls. But remember that concrete is expensive and concrete bunkers are prone to leaking and molding unless you have a proper vapor barrier on all sides of the walls and foundation and the roof.

Make the walls out of sandbags (or similar) and make sure that you put good strong posts every few feet.

Walls needs to be covered in plastic sheeting or polyethylene or both (on the outside for a vapor barrier to prevent moisture from entering in)

On the roof you need to put a layer of vapor proof sheeting (like plastic sheeting or polyethylene), the logs (8 inch diameter) then straw for insulation then more vapor proof sheeting. And finally a layer of dirt (it should be at least 4 feet to act as a barrier against radiation.)

On the floor is a layer of plastic and polyethylene sheeting. The floor frame goes on top of that; the floor frame is packed with straw. Plywood goes on top of the frame and is screwed to the frame with woods screws. Make sure the whole frame is wrapped in polyethylene sheeting and plastic sheeting.

Put silicone where the floor and the walls meet.

For the sewer you can use a pipe running from the toilet into a big pit with a lid on it and a pipe coming out of the lid with a fly screen on.

Build the door for the bunker that can be locked or barred from the inside.

Lastly, remember to keep the bunker completely secret from everyone that you do not want to share your resources with, in short do not build the bunker right in front of your house! I'd personally plant some foliage around it or dig a tunnel in the basement to it and possibly build it inside of a tool shed but that's just me.

Here are some useful sights for in-depth information on bunker construction!

light as white as the powder in their noses, all to keep the pace!
Vrrroooooommm!!!!
Ratatatatatatatatatat!

Rubber burned and the smell intoxicated the filibusters like the powder -like the alcohol -like the sex -like the guns -like the death.
Racing to the nations capital the system was on its last leg. They were going to deliver the coup de' grace a new era was destined to begin. Almost, almost, almost there, there -THERE! They arrived.

They started gunning down civilians as they ran out into the buildings seeking cover, cover like the fire ripping children into many -many pieces. Blood sprayed into the air, high like a geyser, high like the gunners, high -High like the copters.

*Wishwishwishwishwishwishwishwi
shwishwishwishwishwishwish.*

Ratatatatatatatatat!
Ratatatatatatatatat!

The copters and their machine guns. The filibusters pulled out recoilless rifles and fired.

*Froooooooooooooooooosh!
Baaaaang!
Wish..Wish...Wish...Craaaaash!*

An orgy of violence! Grenades brought the accomplishments of the old world tumbling down, down to the ground, down like the corpses, down like the copter, down like the old order. Blossoms of fire balls grew in the streets scorching all in their paths. The survivors, the busters, cackled as they rushed into the old capital with daggers between their teeth and bombs in their hands and hate in their hearts. Some fired on the guards

*CLICKCLANK POW! CLICKCLANK POW!
FAPAPAPAPAPAPAPA!
CRACKCRACKCRACKCRACK!*

Guards defending the dead honor of their president collapsed and drowned in their own blood. The accumulation of sounds of revolution filled the air drowning out everything in its path like the blood drowning its masters to death. So much noise ululating through the halls of the white building!

*Boom! Boom! Aaaggh! No! NO!
NO! Fapapapapapa!
Wishwishwishwishwishwish!
Froooooosh! Pow! CLINKCLANK-POW! CLINKCLANK-POW!
Aaaaggh! Revolution! Basterd!
CRACKCRACKCRACK! Smash!
Caaaacckle! Zeetzetzet!
Aggh...graaagh! Pssss...POW!
SLAM! SMASH! RATATATATA
WISHWISHWISH POW!
Brurburburburburburb!
FAPAPAPAP! Mother!
CRACKCRACK POW! COWARD!
Aaaagh! CRACK! Slitslitslit! Pow!
Baaaang! Fapapapa!*

*We have destroyed your world it is time for ours! Machines will rise and they shall conquer the weak will of man we shall burn your world and we shall start again! We are a force to be reckoned with our American Fatherland will be great again!
We have descended into hell and the blood of our enemies will run as red as the stripes on our flag as their bodies turn as white as the stars. We will fight to fight and kill to kill, let us destroy and conquer! From sea to shining sea our mechanical bodies stomp to the cogwheels of the machine gods of death.
We see in night vision green and infrared all the anguish all the self imposed apathy of a tolerant civilization. Where we once killed red-skinned savages we now kill anyone who is ugly and anyone who is slow, and all the stagnant conformity of pop iconography projecting fagot boy singers and self indulgent sluts that need to be forced into a kitchen. There is no avant-garde everything has already been done before so the only art is the body count of the meek who poison our country, they wont inherit the earth, our Abrams tanks will.
CLICKCLANK-POW!*
