REVOLUTION AND LEGALITY

“ . . . the key to success in the struggle ahead is self-discipline. While it is the time to be “legal” we must stolidly endure whatever the State sees fit to inflict upon us. And when it is time to revolt, we must be prepared to unleash all the furies of hell on the State until it yields.”

ONLY FAILURE IS IMMORAL...

"I am a political soldier. I mean to win. I do not hesitate to admit that I would do anything, absolutely anything, to insure the survival and happiness of our White, Western people.

The survival of Western Civilization is at stake. There is no "moral" and "immoral". The only immoral thing is to permit an enemy to destroy one's people, either by decay or by physical annihilation.

Gentle doctrines mean nothing but oblivion in the filth, stench, and horror of the battlefield. If the enemy gouges eyes, I will gouge eyes and kick to the groin.

Perhaps I will go to Hell for doing what must be done. But if I can look up and see White boys and girls once again playing in a decent, safe, and wholesome America, then bring on the Devil with his worst."

Manson refuses to help 'good friend' Warthan

CHICO (AP) — Convicted mass murderer Charles Manson says he won't try to help his friend, Perry "Red" Warthan, who calls himself a "Nazi" in face murder charges in Orville.

"I'm not going to write him. I'm not going to be responsible for him. I'm not holding him up. He has to hold himself up, just like I had to hold myself up," said Manson in a copy-right interview with a reporter, Roger Aylworth of the Chico Enterprise-Record.

The interview, which took place at the Vacaville state prison where Manson is serving a life sentence for the Tate-La Bianca murders, was published Friday by the Enterprise-Record. It said it occurred recently.

Manson, 42, was convicted of the slayings of actress Sharon Tate and eight other people in Los Angeles in 1969, and was initially sentenced to death before Callifornia's death penalty law was declared unconstitutional. He was denied parole for the fourth time in as many years last month.

Warthan, 41, has pleaded innocent to charges of murdering a 17-year-old. Police say Warthan killed Joseph Hoover because the youth told police Warthan was behind racist literature stuffed in school lockers.

Manson told Aylworth that while he won't help Warthan, "I love him regardless. I respect him and I love him."

Warthan has boasted he was Manson's only "spokesman" in Butte County. Manson agreed that he and Warthan are close.

"We are good friends. He doesn't lie to me and I don't lie to him. We have a good work relationship, based on a great foundation," Manson said.

Manson explained they were brought together by James Mason of Chillicothe, Ohio. Manson has known Mason since Manson was a prisoner in a federal reformatory where Mason's father was a guard long before the Tate killings.

The Ohio man, whom Manson calls a "saint," claims to be the main public spokesman for a Manson-inspired political party and religious sect called the "Universal Order."

Like Warthan, Mason is an ousted member of the National Socialist White People's Party, the Nazi party.

In a telephone interview with the Enterprise-Record, Mason said he had been in regular correspondence with Manson. Earlier this year, he decided the "Universal Order," which he said has about 200 members, needed a direct contact with Manson. Friends suggested Warthan, he said.

Manson said he contacted Warthan, who was at first reluctant, but then agreed and became close friends with Manson. Prison records show that Warthan visited Manson four times before his own arrest.

Manson referred to Warthan as "The Reverend Red."

"He is revered in the respect that he loves the world he lives in," Manson said. "He takes responsibility for the thoughts that he has. I see no bad in the man. All the man wants to do is survive in a world of people that push him in a thousand directions and use him and misuse him."

After his arrest, Warthan talked about a ranch somewhere in Northern California where he would take Nazi recruits for outings.

About that, Manson said: "Yeah, he was trying to get away from the madness. I told him it wouldn't work to get away from it. I had a 40-acre farm too

LIES, DISTORTIONS & HALF- TRUTHS!

Manson did not say he "would not help" Warthan. He did say that he would not make things rougher on him by staying in contact with him during his trial stage. Plus, of how much "help" can a man in a maximum security prison over a hundred miles away be?

Manson did not know Mason until after the killings. And it was not Mason's father but uncle at the reformatory in Ohio.

Like Warthan, Manson is not an "ousted" Nazi Party member but submitted a written resignation in 1976 on the grounds that the Party was not revolutionary any longer. Manson provided the new name and standard for White Revolutionaries to repair to.

He was born in a small rural village. In a society based on inherited class and title his mother had been a house maid. He never attended a university and the only training school he applied to rejected him saying he lacked talent. He never traveled outside his country except to serve as a soldier and few brief visits late in life. He served a term in prison. He did none of the things that usually lead to greatness. He had no credentials but himself. Left an orphan as a youth he never had a single close friend and most people who knew him disliked him. When he died his body was partially burned and then carried off by his enemies. It was never granted a grave. Yet he wrote a book that outsold the Bible during his lifetime and it was translated into every civilized language. He never studied architecture because they wouldn't let him but he redesigned cities. Though he lived in splendor through his achievements he really didn't care much about expensive possessions. Even those who hate him admit he was the central figure of the twentieth century and still fear his message and memory. While communism is being gradually rejected even in countries where it is practiced this man's teachings are still vital. All the armies that ever marched, all the navies that ever sailed, all the parliaments that ever sat, all the kings who ever reigned, even all the edicts and pontifications of the popes or the lives of the saints . . . all put together have not affected the way people think and feel as much as Jesus Christ and this man. He will be remembered as long as men are able to remember anything.

They hail those who hate

By Tom Frazier

Gazette staff writer

Words of hate flow from a small group in Ross County.

Those who preach them think Joseph Paul Franklin may be the "father of the next revolution," a man who made the "supreme sacrifice" for his beliefs.

That's the view of National Socialist Liberation Front member James Mason of Ross County.

Franklin, known to Mason as Jim Vaughan, (Vaughan changed his name in 1976 to fight in Rhodesia) was arrested in Tampa, Fla., a suspect in the shooting of National Urban League President Vernon Jordan last May. He also is believed to have been involved in racially motivated sniper attacks in five cities, including Cincinnati.

While many may consider a man like Vaughan a lunatic, Mason envisions him as a hero of the people.

Mason is editor and publisher of "Siege," a Nazi newsletter published in Ross County, where Mason has lived most of his life. He first met Vaughan at the First Party Congress of the NSLF in Arlington, Va., Labor Day weekend in 1969. When he first heard reports of a Joseph Paul Franklin being sought, Mason said he knew the man FBI officials were looking for was Jim Vaughan. Mason said he and Vaughan had lived in the same barracks when they demonstrated together in November 1969.

Mason remembers Vaughan as the man who volunteered to "gas out" the "hippies" in a Washington, D.C., war moratorium in 1969.

As every child who has ever gone to school knows, the United States was founded on certain lofty principles, freedom of speech being one of them.

For two centuries, citizens expressing different viewpoints, sometimes alarming, often misguided, have been more or less tolerated when compared to actions other nations might have taken.

The concept of the marketplace of ideas, upon which the media ideally bases its existence, has exposed many foreign and seemingly outlandish proposals before Americans for either their approval or repudiation.

Many have failed and been forgotten, others have flourished. The NSLF is one group that is struggling to survive in the marketplace and is banking on the downfall of our present system of government for its success.

What the United States Constitution does not provide for is terrorism, attempted murder and physical threats and aggression. By endorsing such tactics, Mason forfeits all credibility.

Mason firmly believes our way of life must end, one way or another.

"People have to be out there and bring down the federal bureaucracy any way possible," he said. "There's no nice way of getting rid of it."

Mason believes Vaughan is the "first robbin of spring," that Adolf Hitler was "the greatest man who ever walked the earth" and said no congressman is ever elected without Jewish backing, the least of his slurs against Jews.

He said blacks should be sent back to Africa and that blacks actually enjoyed slavery. He quotes Hitler's Mein Kampf about "a duty and a right" to bring down the government.

He said World War II history is a "fairy tale," there was no slaughter of Jews by the Nazis and nations without "white supremacy" are doomed.

Mason said there are about two dozen Nazi members in Ross County with untold sympathizers waiting for a revolution to arrive. And when will this civil war come?

"When will it come?," Mason asked. "When does the dawn begin? It's a natural thing. Then we'll see a little action."

Mason believes in what he says. He said he is also willing to make a sacrifice, such as he said Jim Vaughan has.

"If I saw the moment that I could make a big enough difference, I would sacrifice my life," Mason said.

The willingness to make such a sacrifice is common in members of radical movements, whether they are leftwing, or in this case, from the extreme right.

Mason and the Nazi cause will not succeed in this country unless they receive massive backing from the people.

Their ideology fails because they are hateful men and the American nation — despite our bickering, dissension, frustration and vast differences of opinion — will survive because of inherent strengths, one being the ability to tolerate ideas of men like James Mason.

Heah come de Reverend...

Ralph David Abernathy, the sleazy proprietor of last year's ill-famed "Insurrection City," has announced that he is coming to town again this year. Just as they did last year, all the Washington-area newspapers—except WHITE POWER, the newspaper of White Revolution—will hail this degenerate black bum as a great moral crusader, a champion of human rights, a prince among men.

This will be a gross deceit, for every editor worth his salt knows the truth about Abernathy. He is the butt of endless dirty jokes among the reporters in the National Press Club. He has been fully exposed in the Congressional Record. But there is a conspiracy among those who control the news in America to keep the truth from us, the White men and women of this country. Here is that truth. It is pretty squalid—the sort of thing that most people will find distasteful. But it must be revealed, because the liberal-democratic Establishment is trying to pass off Abernathy—and hundreds of others of his caliber—on us as people deserving of a public hearing. Their ultimate purpose is nothing less than the destruction of America and the White race.

On the night of August 29, 1958, the Reverend Ralph David Abernathy was chased from his church office and through the streets of Montgomery, Alabama, by the irate, hatchet-wielding husband of one of the female members of his congregation. Police saved the screaming Abernathy from his pursuer, a Negro named Edward Davis, and Davis was brought to trial for assault with a deadly weapon in November, 1958, before the Circuit Court of Montgomery County, Alabama, with Judge Eugene W. Carter presiding. The following is excerpted from testimony that was given in that trial by Vivian McCoy Davis, wife of Edward Davis. It is reproduced below exactly as it appears in the official transcript.

TRANSCRIPT OF TESTIMONY OF VIVIAN McCOY DAVIS, A WITNESS FOR THE DEFENDANT.

DIRECT EXAMINATION BY MR. KNABE:

Q. This is Vivian Davis?
A. Yes, I am.

Q. And what was your name before you became Davis?

A. Vivian McCoy.
Q. Now, did Abernathy date you at any time?
A. Yes, sir, he did.

Q. Did he ever have physical or sexual relations with you?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did he have normal relations or abnormal relations?

A. Both.
Q. Both?
A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, did you ever tell him that you wanted him to stop getting in touch with you?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. I show you a picture that is marked for identification the Defendant's Exhibit No. 4 and ask you if you recognize that picture?

A. Yes, I do.
Q. What is that a picture of?

A. That is a picture of a house, and that is the house that we went to.

Q. And where is it located?
A. It is located on Clark Street.

Q. Now, then, you say you went there. Who went there?

A. Reverend Abernathy and myself.
Q. Did he take you or did you take him?
A. He took me.

Q. I see. And now, what happened at that house?

A. That is where these affairs took place.

Q. And at that time how old were you?

A. Fifteen.

Q. And at that time you were a member of his church?

A. Yes, sir.

CROSS EXAMINATION BY MR. THETFORD:

Q. Now, you testified, I believe, that—I don't know whether you did testify—when did you first know Reverend Abernathy, what year?

A. It was in '52 or '51. I imagine, when he came to the First Baptist Church. I am not sure what year it was he came there. But the first time he made approaches to me was in Birmingham in '52, July of '52.

Q. Now, how old were you in 1952?

A. I was fifteen then at that time.

MOVE members' latest actions finally too much for residents

Gannett News Service

PHILADELPHIA — While MOVE followers have been living in the Cobbs Creek-West Philadelphia neighborhood since 1981, their neighbors have become determined to oust them only in the past year.

The anger came after MOVE members used bullhorns mounted on the roof of the two-story rowhouse last summer to broadcast abusive language and propaganda for hours at a time.

It came after MOVE members built a crude kennel across the back alley for stray cats and dogs, boarded up the front windows with slats and began to erect a stockade-like structure on the roof.

Neighbors also have said three residents of the street were beaten after criticizing MOVE members. Those persons and others who said they were threatened were afraid to file charges out of fear of retribution, neighbors said.

TENSION HAS increased in the last month as residents pressured city officials to enforce sanitation, health and building codes at the house. But, the neighbors complained, city officials did nothing until Sunday morning.

Orin Thomas, who has lived on the block for 18 years in a house across the street from MOVE, said he has been worried about the situation for weeks.

"I can't even go to work without worrying about my children; my whole lifestyle has changed," he said.

For the past week, since neighbors at a block meeting threatened to oust MOVE themselves, police kept a steady but low profile in the neighborhood. They also began interviewing neighbors in an attempt to prepare a legal case against MOVE members.

POLICE SOURCES said the city was considering criminal complaints charging MOVE members with reckless endangerment of another person, making terroristic threats and assault. It was not known if such charges have been filed.

Last Friday, city officials met with residents living near the MOVE house.

After that meeting, block captain Clifford Bond said Mayor W. Wilson Goode had promised to reveal a plan for dealing with the situation during a community meeting next Saturday. Goode, who earlier had said the city would not act until it had "sufficient legal grounds," declined to comment.

The next morning, Police Commissioner Gregory Sambor and Fire Commissioner William Richmond met with their fire and police officials for several hours to discuss the MOVE situation and presumably planning Sunday's evacuation of residents.

Later in the day, Bond announced the neighborhood group had decided to sue the city for failure to enforce building, health and sanitation codes.

ANTHONY DENNIS Jackson, a lawyer who is counsel for the state Legislature's Black Caucus, said he met for an hour with 15 residents, explaining legal options. The residents, he said, decided to file a civil suit that would "compel the city to enforce ordinances and compensate neighbors for damages."

In another development last week, Councilwoman Joan Spector charged that despite an outstanding gas bill of more than $1,000 and a water bill of $500, city utility companies have not shut off service to the MOVE house.

So far, the city's investigation of MOVE is aimed only at the home on the 6200 block Osage Avenue, not two other MOVE homes in West Philadelphia at 51st Street and Baltimore Avenue and at 56th Street and Chester Avenue, according to John Hagerty, a spokesman for District Attorney Ed Rendell.

Bodies reportedly found in house

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA — A bomb dropped from a police helicopter onto the headquarters of the radical group MOVE touched off a fire that destroyed up to 60 houses in a middle-income neighborhood, and officers today searched for armed members who fled the siege.

A published report today said at least three bodies had been spotted in the house. Officers did not immediately return phone calls seeking comment on the report.

The neighborhood, which dates to the turn of the century, was "like a war zone" at the climax of the siege Monday and the one of the worst fires in Philadelphia history. Residents who watched the flames chanted "assassins" and "murderers" at officers.

One MOVE member was captured Monday, and at least one child was carried from the scene, officials said. But others eluded the more than 150 officers who had surrounded the fortified western Philadelphia house.

"WE STILL have police in the area looking for them. We have the area surrounded and are watching for them," said police Detective Thomas McCormick.

The Philadelphia Daily News, quoting unidentified firefighters, said officials had sighted the bodies of three adult MOVE members who died in a gun battle with police Monday.

Mayor W. Wilson Goode said he accepted responsibility for the "devastating" fire. He said police would not have dropped the bomb if they could have foreseen the result, and added he believed officers showed "tremendous restraint" during the siege.

Goode, interviewed on ABC-TV today, said he did not think there were any deaths, but added, "We're still assessing that."

The 30-minute gunbattle erupted after MOVE's refusal to leave the building, and police used tear gas and water cannon in an attempt to flush them out. The front of the building was torn open under the pressure of the deluge.

The bomb was not an incendiary device but an explosive designed to blow a hole in the reinforced house to give police a larger target for teargas canisters, police said.

The violent confrontation with members of the back-to-nature group came after police tried to evict MOVE members from their building, which was equipped with a steel-plated rooftop bunker complete with gunslots.

Residents had complained of assaults, robberies and a stench at the house. Police had obtained warrants for four MOVE members charging them with harassment, criminal conspiracy, possession of explosives, disorderly conduct and rioting, said police Lt. Al Lewis.

After police surrounded the MOVE headquarters in Philadelphia Monday and evacuated about 200 homes in the area, a state police helicopter dropped a bomb on the rooftop of the house at 5:27 p.m. By the time the fire was brought under control at 11:40 p.m., it had spread to nearly 60 houses creating what looked like a "war zone."

Roadblock

Missouri Highway Patrol trooper stops a car at a roadblock on a highway near Branson, Mo., Monday, after a trooper was killed and another wounded during a routine traffic inspection earlier in the day. The FBI said the assailant in the shootings may have been one of 23 people indicted in Seattle for involvement in a neo-Nazi group.

HIDEOUT BLASTED INTO RUBBLE

Neo-Nazi Robert Mathews died when FBI agents in a helicopter dropped flares into this hideout near Seattle, officials said yesterday. Mathews believed his "revolution" would overthrow the U.S.

'Revolutionary' killed

SEATTLE (UPI) — A neo-Nazi who believed he was leading a white supremacist "revolution" that would end in the violent overthrow of the U.S. government died in a fiery shootout at an island hideout, federal prosecutors said yesterday.

Robert Jay Mathews's heavily armed gang was pursuing "elimination of the Jewish influence and other minority groups from American society to provide for the ascendancy of the Aryan race," documents filed in U.S. District Court said.

Authorities, meanwhile, pressed their search for three men said to be with Mathews just before the FBI sealed off scenic Whidbey Island Friday and laid siege to the area, arresting four people and cornering Mathews in a rented beach house in the Smuggler's Cove area.

At the end of a two-day standoff, Mathews, described as heavily armed, was believed to have been killed after an exchange of heavy-weapons fire with FBI agents when a helicopter dropped illumination flares into the house, sparking a fiery explosion that destroyed the wood structure.

Mathews' group was known as the Order, White American Bastion, and Bruder Schweigen (German for Silent Brotherhood) and adhered to a book called Turner's Diaries, published by "an extreme right-wing association on the East Coast known as the National Alliance, a criminal complaint said.

The book advocates takeover of American society by white males who begin their "revolution by first funding itself by robberies, counterfeiting and other crimes," the FBI complaint said.

Weapons were to be bought for use in "terrorist attacks against public officials and public offices, energy facilities, communication systems, newspaper offices, and TV and radio stations."
