The American dream is soaking filth, metaphysical and material filth, rotting it from the inside out to leave its bloated corpse steaming in industrial decay. Vultures in business suits, intellectuals, and unwashed masses pick its carcass clean. Everyone is infected by this atrophy. They are machines rusting out waiting to be programmed and re-programmed based on whatever new product is recorded or painted on flat-screen canvases.

"I wonder, however, whether the older generation has a right to tell young Americans how far they should go. The light will be theirs. We may help them with our money and advise them; we may try to give them the advantage of what knowledge we have gleaned from history and our own experience. But let us remember that although you and I may personally have done all that we could — I hope we did — we nevertheless, belong to a generation that was too inept and too fatuous to keep what it had. Let us not try to impose the sentimentality and squeamishness that was fatal to us on our successors. The future, if there is one, is theirs." - Revilo P Oliver

"The crisis consists precisely in the fact that the old is dying and the new cannot be born; in this interregnum a great variety of morbid symptoms appear" - Antonio Gramsci

Youth are forced to live with their parents are in small apartments of three or four scrambling to make ends meet. Retirements are destroyed over night and what is left is taxed by the Federal Government to appease its howling minority house pets. I look at the pathetic creeps around me and there is nothing in their eyes. They have no life. Their dreams have perished and they've succumbed to drugs and Godlessness.

The American dream is dead – I thank our Christ Father that his will placed me here – in this era so I can watch it all burn.

All my life I have dreamed the Iron Dream and now I can see it marching on the horizon – in steel capped boots cracking the cobblestone. The system will collapse and nature will finally able to do its work – the strongest element will prevail and will have to cut all the scum lose. It is time for generation kill to be a generation will.

Iron in those hearts, a gun in their hands – and an idea. Like Martin Luther King I have a dream, but this one is for real. Traitors and enemies hanging in shame from sea to shining sea, is not a dream but an inevitability.

THE CULTURE WAR

Part 2 Jacob Horst

A young woman leaves her clean cut fiance and the promise of a married life because she has been told that for her happiness and to achieve her potential she must remain single, so she decides to sleep around, blacks out a lot, and fills her lungs with poison - surprisingly though, she is miserable.

A young man rolls a joint because he thinks it is cool, because he thinks it will bring himself closer to happiness - the pursuit of happiness absorbs him, it becomes his mission in life. His sole ideal is to have everything without a care in the world.... But he is a bagboy at a supermarket. He is not a celebrity, and he is not really enjoying his life, he is just a pathetic sap.

Take a look around the country. We idolize deadbeats, their debauchery and the whoring that they are flaunting in interviews, TV shows, stand-up tours, and everything else. A lot of them even go as far to brag about their crack usage. This appeals to the disgruntled youth who are living in times of economic uncertainty and are looking at models of what they think is "success" for comfort. Drugs=Money and Happiness. All reinforced by the music of degenerates. Take your pick - everything revolves around drugs.

"Modern psychiatrists, doctors, and sociologists are wrong in their diagnosis of drug addiction among large segments of Western youth. They fail to realize that to combat drug abuse one must prevent its social and political causes before attempting to cure its deadly consequences. Given that the crux of the modern liberal system is the dictatorship of well-being and the dogma of boundless economic growth, many disabused young people are led to believe that everybody is entitled to eternal fun. In a make-believe world of media signals, many take for granted instant gratification by projecting their faces on the characters of the prime-time soaps. Before they turn into drug addicts, they become dependent on the videospheric surreality of television, which in a refined manner tells them that everybody must be handsome, rich, and popular. In an age of TV-mimicry, headless young masses become, so to speak, the impresarios of their own narcissism. Such delusions can lead to severe depressions, which in turn can lead to drugs and suicide. Small wonder that in the most liberal countries of the West, notably California, Holland, and Denmark, there is also the highest correlation between drug addiction and suicide." - Tomislav Sunic "The Right Stuff : Drugs and Democracy"

The youth of today wish for success in a country where they're told the economy is falling apart, America is going into decline, and that we're gonna be wrapped up in even more wars in the middle east. This creates a drive to escapism, and they see that in celebrities who are rich and haven't a care in the world. People try to emulate the leisure class as sure ways of happiness. This is why kids will buy certain clothes and behave in certain ways – this is part of why they fall into drug use, and when they realize they'll never be a television star it fuels a nihilistic sense of hopelessness that is coped with by taking even more drugs.

How could this have happened? Let's look at the turning point in the academia of the US in the mid to late fifties. The beatnik generation rose as the first counter-culture in the US, thanks to cultural Marxists such as Alan Ginsberg, Harold Rosenberg, Clement Greenberg, and Leo Steinberg. The beatnik subculture was the precursor to the Hippy movement -it was a brooding phenomena of drug use and intellectual wankery of young people trying to break from the society that we developed after the War. From dark glasses and black berrets, to tie-dye shirts with feathered hair, the beatniks rampaged through the streets under a different name: Hippy. Their appeal to the nation was their opium daze and promiscuity. "Go to California" resonated in the minds of young people dissatisfied with the day-to-day monotony of office and factory work who, without a war or cause, flocked to the west coast in search of something more.

The majority of right-wing Americans condemned this as chlidish behavior and even treason, but something changed yet again. The drunken, strung out, hilljacks motorcycles were the hippies' equivalent to the right. They projected the image of the modern cowboy; free and independent, their willingness to support the nation during the Vietnam war solidified their place in the hearts of the poor American right. They're image was to be emulated by hordes of white trailer trash for decades to come.

Drugs were forced onto the poor by the rich cultural marxists and college yuppies and conveyed by the bikers. It should be worthy to note the anarcho-communist poet Alan Ginsberg openly used LSD with Sonny Barger when he wasn't running around in tie-dye gawking at little boys between NAMBLA meetings. Since then, drugs were nothing more then a marketing campaign to make teenfags feel cool and rebellious.

How could we have gone from a militant, organic society to a cesspool of charlie sheen posers?

Our society broke down as the flower cunts made their debut in San Francisco. The US became complacent and thought that using postwar luxury goods as well as milking the Red Scare could keep the people subdued in a well oiled machine. But they were wrong. It had the opposite effect.

The threat of nuclear annihilation in addition to material goods forced down onto the masses created the initial atmosphere of despair.

All the youth had to look forward to was college and then a nine to five job in some boring office, assuming they weren't incinerated in fallout first, that is. California seemed like the likely answer, why not? If you're going to die then a new toaster oven surely won't make you feel better, might as well get stoned and fuck some beach whore before you're melted to your desk and all the spaghetti westerns in the world couldn't preserve American romanticism because hey, what's the point if you're faced with nuclear annihilation?

The system failed to move forward, locked in a military deadlock with the Bolshies and the only creative force they could come up with was putting a man on an orbiting rock. Great if you're an astronaut but what does that mean for the hordes of pencil pushers?

The system caused people to lose faith in their country, so what reason did they possibly have to be socially responsible? People don't commit crimes because they do not want the punishment, so when society ceases to be sacred it falls apart, and the only way society can be sacred is if it is sacred to the people and if the government provides no room for expansion but plenty of cash for televisions then it's doing nothing but driving more nails into it's coffin. This money juggling abused the will of the people, like a father who beats his children of a drunk stoned trailer trash mother who calls her daughters whores. They directed their anger against the Nation with their marches and drum circles.

From here the situation got even worse, as the disco and led fags made a rise after the tie-dye monkeys were beaten to a bloody pulp trying to bomb government buildings. People figured they wanted to toke(?) up without the baggage of fighting for a cause and getting maced in the face.

They directed this anger and anxiety inwards, and so the hippy hangover was born, the 70s! But it was different because out of the South American jungles came cocaine.....

...which would eventually be turned into crack-cocaine that was smuggled into the US by Reagan to fight "teh ebul kommunist", and as his wife told third graders to "just say NO!", the CIA was working on getting them hooked.

The hypocrisy could not be ignored and if the system is pushing junk, why not use it?

I've said it before, drugs and money are equal to success.

Part of the psychology behind this is we keep telling kids that they can literally be anything they want to be. We live in the land of opportunity, and while most would be happy working with their hands our media is adamant on forcing down this egalitarianism.

When this veil is shattered and people realize they're most likely not going to be superstars they create a world of escapism with drugs, these people are scared of life.

The only thing done about this, is an army of moralizers saying, "drugs are bad, M'kay?" and endless programs that do not tackle the real issue;

What I mean is more effort is put into rehabilitation and not striking the problem at its rotten core: The cartels and the media fueling this decline in cultural standards.

We can begin the process of attacking this problem. Our movement is capable of creating change because we stand outside of the system all together. We can give the youth something real to believe in and re-direct their energy into rebuilding the nation and society by making the youth remember who and what they are. They are Aryans part of an Empire and our Founding Fathers are probably turning in their graves over how the experiment turned out. This is how we can make society sacred again. The Nazis turned Germany around the same way. They made the German people remember that they are a proud warrior Nation and they directed the energy of the disassociated youth from the rising sex and drug cabaret scenes into creativity; this is what we need. Creation.

My America...I only love it because this is where the Lord decided I should be, but I've grown to deplore it's politics because it is far too apathetic on drugs and way too lenient to freaks and foreigners that talk trash about it. Every day I find myself thinking,

"Dear Lord, make my kinsfolk proud of their Saxon blood, make them love our achievements again!"

Now is the time for us to unite in Germanic unity to fight slothful degenerates soaking up tax dollars not contributing anything to our once great extension of Aryan civilization. Progression has firmly weeded its way under our skin; they've entrenched themselves and nearly won. Where are those born free Americans, our ancestors who fought to give us this birth?

Most of them are dieing of old age while their grandaughters are selling themselves on the streets, and their grandsons are shooting up bath salts in some crack-den-wasting, rotting, soulless subhumans. They've lost their sense of pride, duty, and tribe and have no respect for their nation. The ones who do care are being strangled by either underemployment or unemployment, tempted with debauchery as the only escape from this Babylonian machine. Our Government and that Anorexic basketball reject promised us change but they're too busy bending over for CAPITALIST lobbyists whilst catering to the needs of third world hell holes who'd gas us if they had the opportunity, but oh well they won't starve and who will suffer in our over-crowded labor market? We will...

Germany was a beaten country, as was Italy -back after the Great War and they rose from the ashes of despair mobilized ready to finish what was started.

They were stirred up by a fiery patriotic zeal from Hitler and Mussolini who brought their countries to greatness, cleared out the parasites and criminals, and money jugglers who know no allegiance to anything except greed and money. Money has no motherland. Let us rise as the Founding Fathers did, let us march and conquer like we did.

Let us go forth and clean up the city streets. A storm is coming and that storm is Fascism. Fascism is America's GOD GIVEN RIGHT. If you want anything done, if you want our situation to improve, if you want to fight back then walk with us in line. We'll party like it's 1939 and reclaim our inheritance.

The Man They Called Devil: George Lincoln Rockwell, the last American Patriot -Jacob Horst

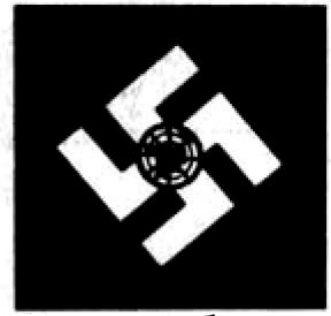

George Lincoln Rockwell was probably the last true Fascist in our country. His ruthless courage, his quick wit, and his all American attitude produced a force to be reckoned with during the turbulent love revolution of the 60s. Your opinion of Rockwell should not matter; so much History is detail, it is divisive we fight over it but think to study, learn from it.

Rockwell was a social Darwinist that knew the true polarity was between Fascism and Communism, not Capitalism and Communism. He wore the swastika to attract anyone who wanted real action. It scared away the weak-willed cowards leaving behind the bold and brave. It also scared the leftists who often used words like "Fascist" and "Nazi" as an epithet for their right-wing counterparts, they never expected that anyone would claim this title, then there was Rockwell who would say, "YES, we are Nazis and yes we will gas you!" While scaring the libs Rockwell was also holding up a mirror to the American right showing them what they were really meant to be, Rockwell was out in the streets doing and saying what the mainstream right could not.

Rockwell was a street fighter and it was very common for him and ten men to standoff against hundreds of reds at any given time. He proved to us that a single ounce of courage is worth more than a thousand leaflets and a radio interview. He also taught us that if you can connect to the tribal mentality of a group of people you can rip through all the brainwashing and Jew gold like a hot knife through butter.

Rockwell was not only a man who actually achieved something through his insatiable will to fight the ship wreckers of his nation – but he took an even greater act of courage, he took on unreservedly the responsibility of what being a fighter morally entailed. Today on what is left of the right we are drowning in sissies; leaders who are not leaders but craven cowards, compromised old moochers, weak minded 'intellectual' elites – they dare sneer at us but they will never know what it is to be a nationalist. To be a nationalist - that is to fight for your people, you must be brave and bold like Rockwell.

Commander Rockwell, we salute you!

Only three times in the history of the world have any nations once under all-out attack by the Jewish ship-wreckers even managed to fight off the Red plague and recover control: Italy, Germany and Spain. And each time, it was not conservative talk which foiled the Red shipwreckers, but ACTION, which the enemy always curses as "fascism". What they call "fascism" on "Nazism" is nothing more than Aryan on White Man's DEFENSE AGAINST THE RED SHIPWRECKERS. "Nazism" is the defense mechanism of the Aryan White Man against the deadly attack of world Jewry, with its Communism, Zionism, racial defilement, degeneracy and "democracy". Nazism replaces the collapsing "conservative" defense with vigorous ATTACK. And when a people are as near to historical death as the whole White Race, attack is not only the best defense, it is the ONLY defense.

If you have, then look at the definition from Webster's Collegiate Dictionary (Fifth Edition) page 365 - the definition of "Fascism:" Fascist movement. The movement toward nationalism and conservatism as opposed to internationalism and radicalism, originated by the Fascisti in Italy.

Note that Fascism is defined as "The Movement toward nationalism and conservatism as opposed to internationalism and radicalism". Now do you see why the Jews (and the rightwing cowards) hate that word "fascism" so much? The "Fasces" were plastered all over everything connected with the United States Government, because, by definition, THE AMERICAN GOVERNMENT WAS DESIGNED TO BE A "FASCIST" GOVERNMENT! (Nationalist and Conservative)

Liberal (and conservative) cowardice and equivocation are leading the world, and especially the White people, straight to the hell of race war and the nightmare of an irreversible Black Plague.

It is going to take bloody violence and killing to solve this problem,

just as it was not words, which gave us America, but violence and killing of the British. It took bloody violence and killing for the German White Men to stop Genghis Khan. It took bloody violence and killing to win every war we have ever fought, NOT conservative words and petitions.

To stop a plague of bed bugs takes killing, not words.

Locusts and bed bugs that do not invade your home do not need killing.

Inferior humanity

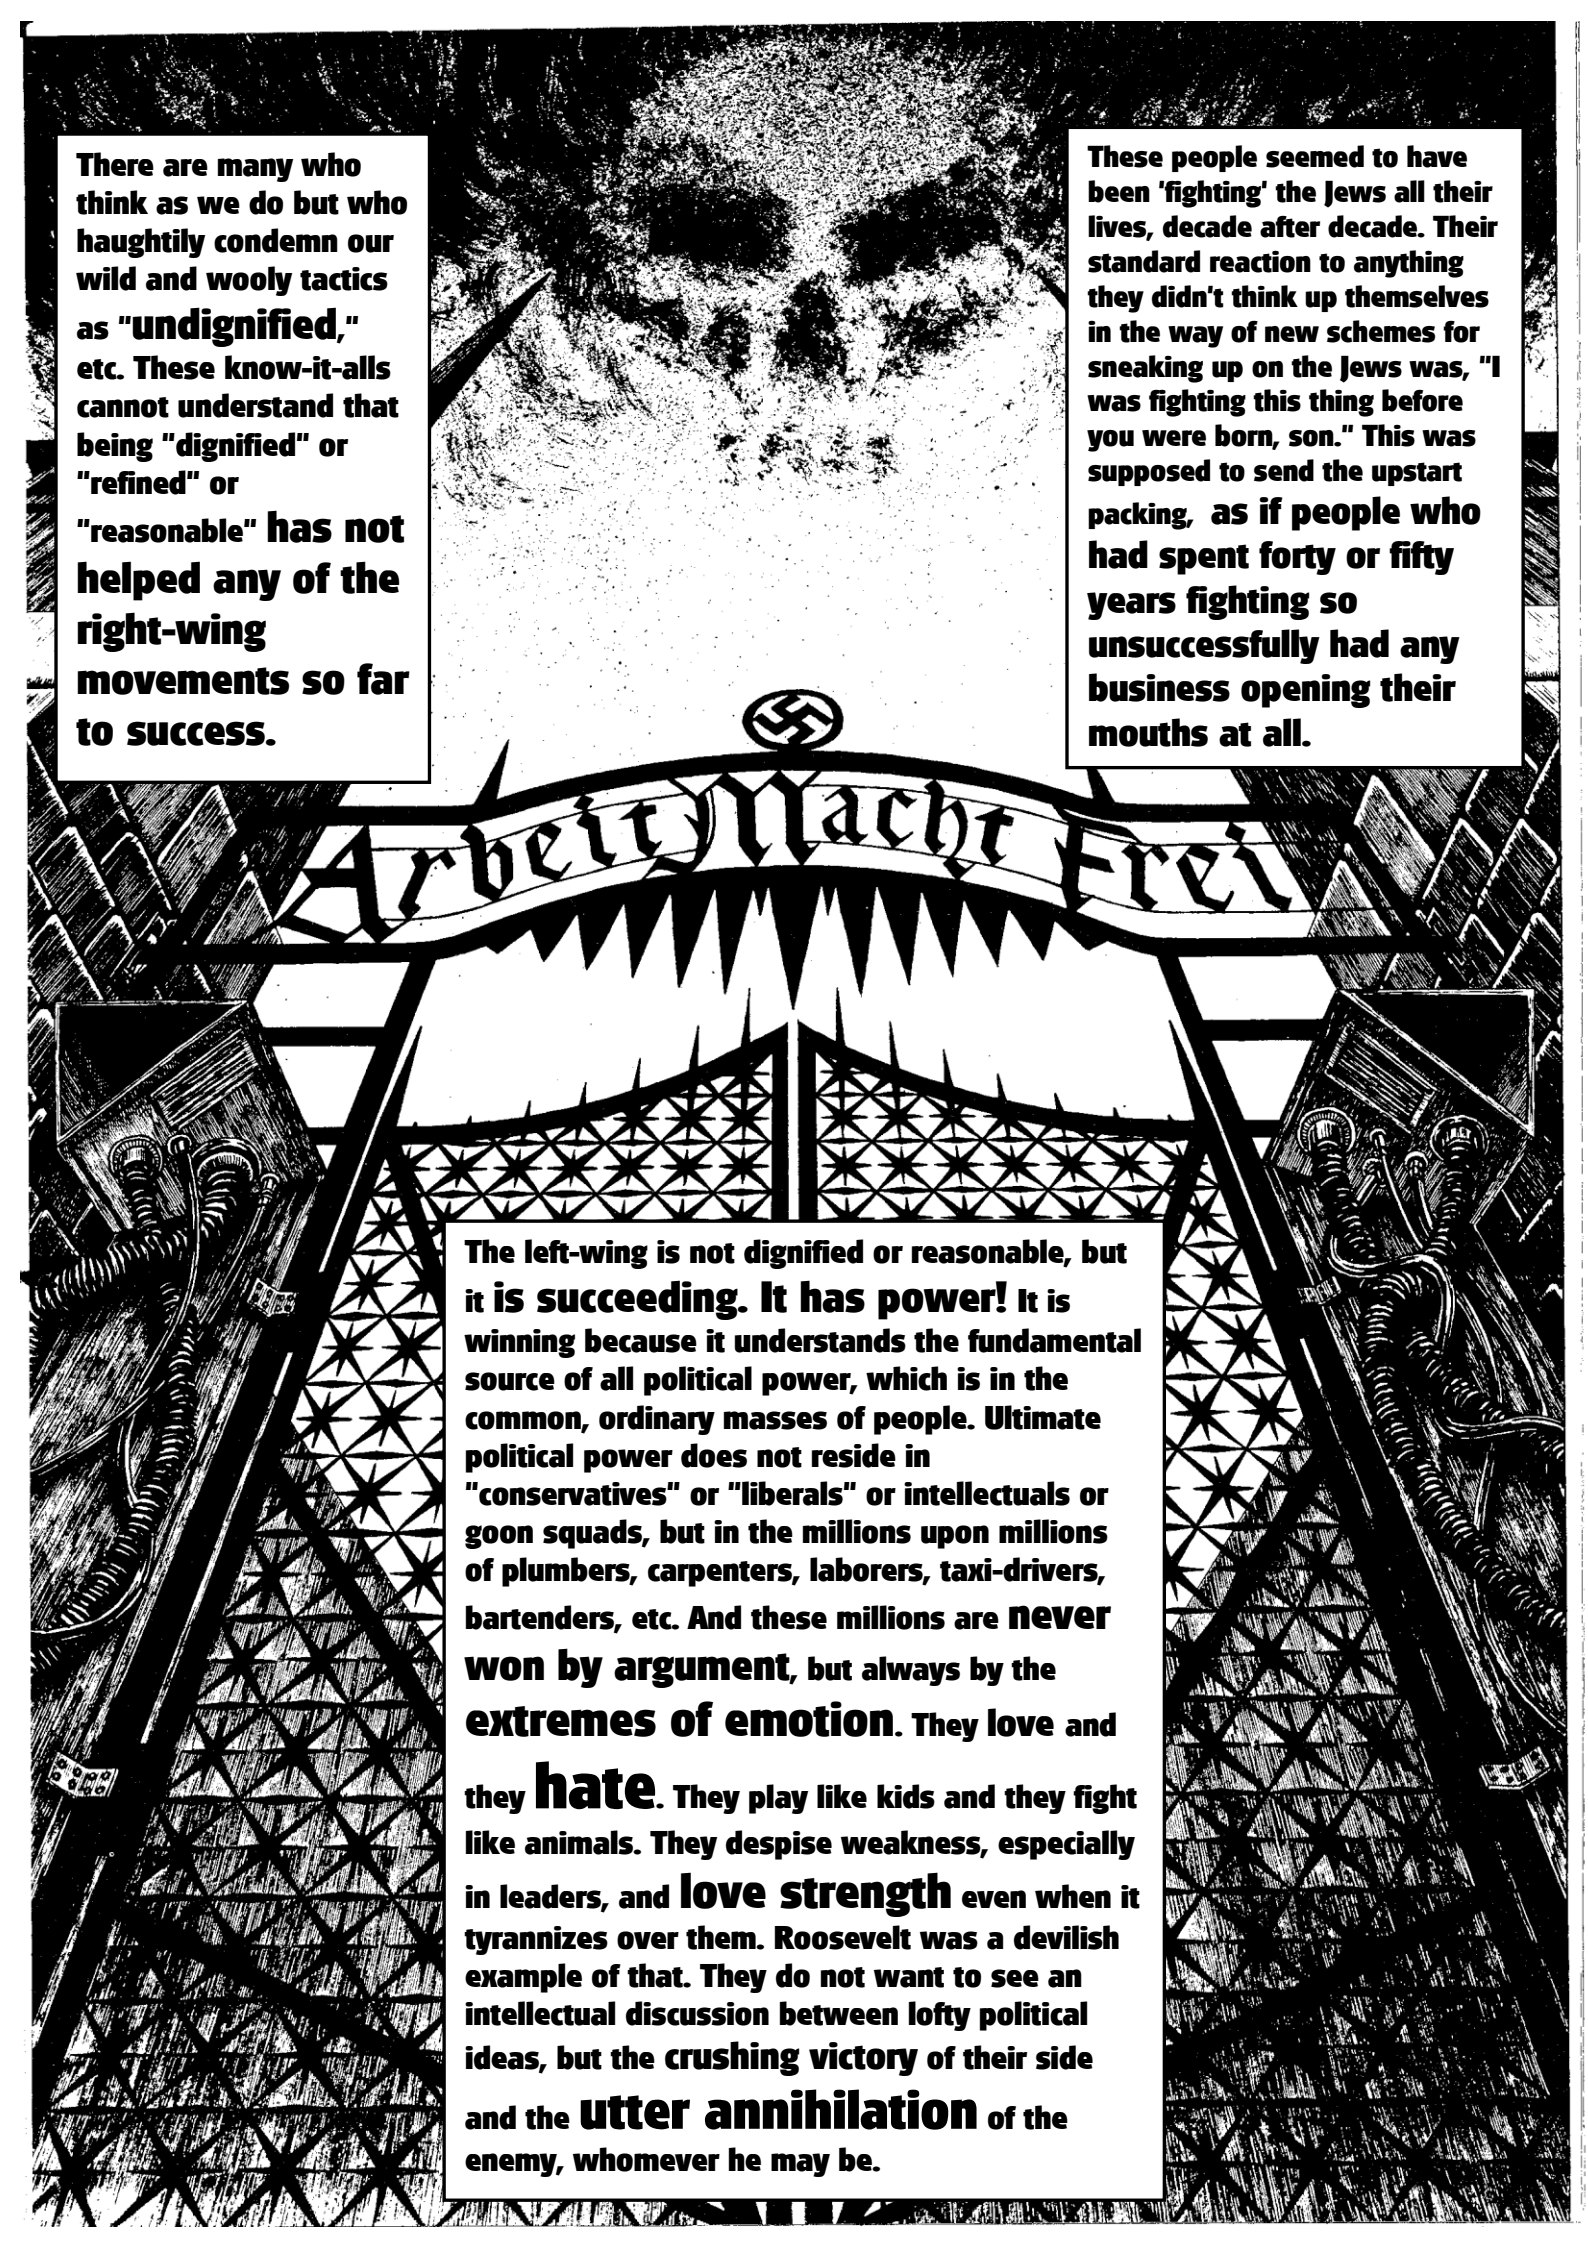

which leaves the White Man alone does not need killing, either, and can be left to limit their own numbers by their own stupidity, improvidence and cruelty. But it is forever too late for those colored people who ATTACK the White Man to be permitted to survive.

We have no intention of attacking or exterminating those who leave us alone.

But let this be a declaration of War upon the savages who dare to shout "Kill Whitey," and on those Jews and others who dare to encourage, agitate, arm and finance them in this bloody insanity.

It's them, or us!

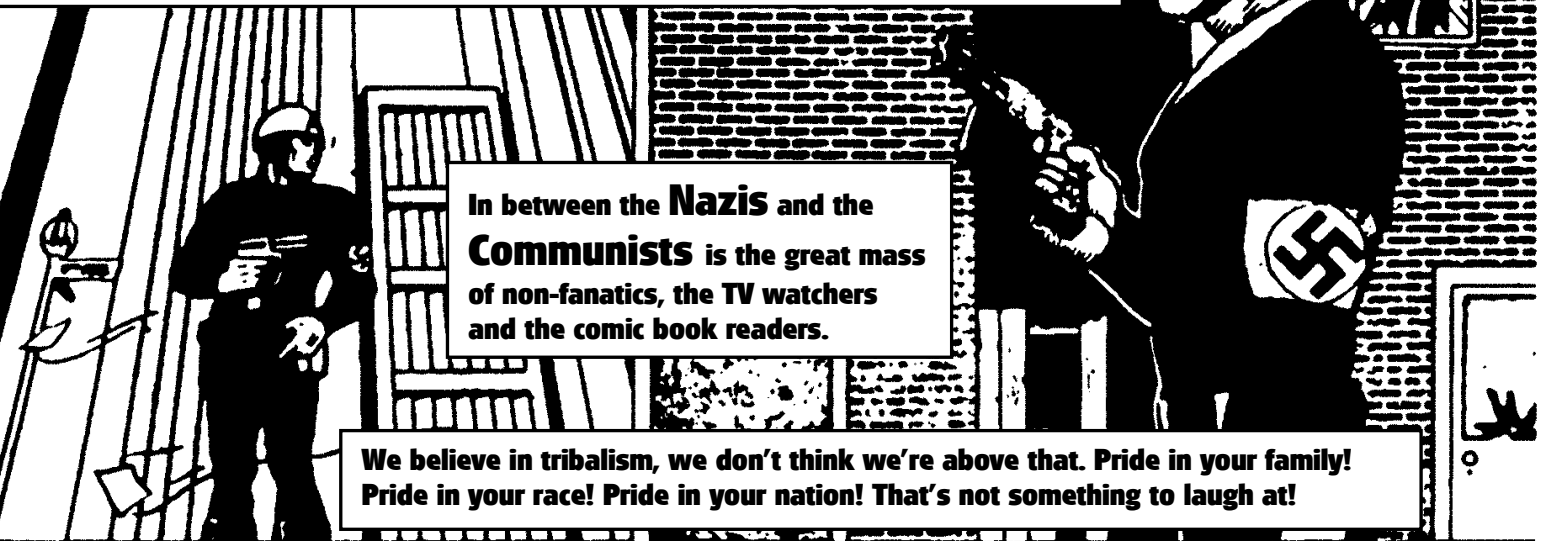

There are many who think as we do but who haughtily condemn our wild and wooly tactics as "undignified," etc. These know-it-alls cannot understand that being "dignified" or "refined" or "reasonable" has not helped any of the right-wing movements so far to success.

These people seemed to have been 'fighting' the Jews all their lives, decade after decade. Their standard reaction to anything they didn't think up themselves in the way of new schemes for sneaking up on the Jews was, "I was fighting this thing before you were born, son." This was supposed to send the upstart packing, as if people who had spent forty or fifty years fighting so unsuccessfully had any business opening their mouths at all.

The left-wing is not dignified or reasonable, but it is succeeding. It has power! It is winning because it understands the fundamental source of all political power, which is in the common, ordinary masses of people. Ultimate political power does not reside in "conservatives" or "liberals" or intellectuals or goon squads, but in the millions upon millions of plumbers, carpenters, laborers, taxi-drivers, bartenders, etc. And these millions are never won by argument, but always by the extremes of emotion. They love and they hate. They play like kids and they fight like animals. They despise weakness, especially in leaders, and love strength even when it tyrannizes over them. Roosevelt was a devilish example of that. They do not want to see an intellectual discussion between lofty political ideas, but the crushing victory of their side and the utter annihilation of the enemy, whomever he may be.

"Every national socialist believes in idealism, believes in something worth more than his one single human life, he's willing to die for something ... He who loses his life shall find it. When you are ready to die for something then you're alive, and until you are ready to die for something you're just putting along, you're not getting any place, you've got no real fanaticism."

In between the Nazis and the Communists is the great mass of non-fanatics, the TV watchers and the comic book readers.

We believe in tribalism, we don't think we're above that. Pride in your family! Pride in your race! Pride in your nation! That's not something to laugh at!

Our "Nazi" tactics force the Jews to blast us, in spite of their efforts at "silent treatment," as "monsters," "hate mongers," hoodlums, terrorists, etc., etc. In spite of themselves, the Jews must build, on their own TV, an image of us which is just as phony as the images they build of their own marionettes – but an image of us nevertheless, and an image of emotional impact which reaches the masses. ...In fact, it is preferable that the image of us, at this stage, is monstrous.

The masses think like an electronic calculator. They have no modulations, but only plus and minus, black and white, absolutely good, and absolutely bad.

Pavlov proved with his dogs that fundamental behavior patterns are basically determined by physical conditioning – and the Jews and Communists have proved with their "brainwashing," that human beings follow the same laws of mechanical psychology as Pavlov's dogs. With proper techniques, every living being, including humans, can be manipulated.

Only the hot-house intellectuals want their fiction to be "modulated" with "greys," as in real life. The common man wants heroes and villains, and no mistake about it. He cannot fathom or sympathize with a "nice" villain or a "bad" hero. An examination of the pulp magazines and comic books he prefers will quickly establish the truth of that statement.

If "Superman" got drunk and made an ass of himself, or turned coward once in a while – as real "heroes" do – he would be out of business in a trice.

Right now, and for yet a while longer, they are the shining "heroes," and we are the 100% rotten "villains." Never mind, we have reached the masses with an image as the all-out opponents of what is going on. As long as John Doe is reasonably satisfied with what is going on and his own lot, he will continue to accept that image.

With race riots all over America as hungry blacks and whites fight for non-existent jobs, all the pretty notions of brotherhood and sweet reasonableness will be gone in a few moments of agonized recognition that his "friends" have been his enemies all along and his enemies have therefore been his friends.

The liars are now convicting themselves before the jury of America, and the more they lie and swindle the jury, the more that jury will howl for the liars blood when they discover how they have been taken. We are content -- nay HAPPY -- to be advertised as the would-be murderers of all Jews, even though that is not true, since we thus (1) reach the masses with simple ideas, and (2) stand forth as the uncompromising enemies of what we know the masses are growing to hate, and will hate with a passion in a very few years.

Men cannot survive the cataclysms of history, the mighty ideological and sociological upheavals which move all men, without some kind of Polar Star, some sacred symbol, which becomes 'holy' and greater than any man.

Religion formerly supplied these 'holy' things, but the day of general belief in miracles and supernaturalism is over. Millions of human beings on this earth today have no religion whatsoever, which is part of the cause of the current unparalleled chaos. Men are 'milling around' in the dark, without direction, without hope, without understanding. Only if I could succeed in restoring to our people some kind of rational 'Polar Star' could our people be saved.

Only when I could make them see that the individual is not as important as the race – as Nature intended - could I succeed in terms of history and humanity, rather than immediate politics. Therefore, even if all the tactical reasons for the use of the Swastika did not exist, I should still have decided to stand forth with that deadly insignia emblazoned on my shield as I hurled my challenge at the Destroyers of Mankind.

I am, and must be, above all things, the Apostle of Adolf Hitler, who was the greatest world savior in two thousand years.

I must, like Saint Paul before me, now spread what I once misunderstood, hated and fought.

I must, like the early Christians, drive out the 'evil spirits' of materialism, greed, selfishness, short-sightedness and cowardice, and stand defiant, even in the midst of the 'lions of the Colosseum', if that be my fate, to give the world once more that 'Polar Star' of direction, purpose, hope, loyalty and love which can no longer be supplied by the infiltrated religions.

Adolf Hitler carried the baton as far as he could. Now it was my task, since no other would do it, to seize it up and carry it, in my turn, as far as was in my power.

...and if I fall, I am training those here, and I think there are those in other countries, that will take up the torch and carry it forward. Nothing ... absolutely nothing can stop National Socialism ...

Imperium Americana:

The Mechanics of the Roman Ideal in America - By 'DUX'

It is undeniable that the Roman Empire was the greatest in history; it lasted nearly 2,500 years from the founding of the city by Romulus to the Fall of Constantinople in 1453 CE to the Ottoman Turks. One of the largest empires in history, the Roman Empire at it's height was bested only by the conquests of Alexander the Great. Roman mythology, law, architecture, and language form the foundation of almost all of Western Civilization. But what was the secret of the Romans? How did they last as long as they did? Well they did though a system of ideals which were manifested and held within Roman government Aequitas: Equality. Equity and fairness within public and private workings. Nowadays the concept of equality has been hijacked by liberals and cultural Marxists, who in implementing programmes designed to give special privilege and rights to minorities, take away rights from the majority. An excellent example of this can be seen within the Affirmative Action programme. Affirmative Action is a programme designed to combat a perceived "white-bias" within the educational and other systems, and as such implements literal minority quotas that must be filled; often at the expense of far more qualified non-minority applicants. To implement Aequitas within the US would do away with minority-favoring programmes and create policies that treated all fairly; basing promotions and such strictly on the individual. This ties in with the Fascist concept of Meritocracy; and helps create a strong State with capable officials as opposed to those simply born with the correct darkened tone.

Bonus Eventus: Remembering fortunate events. This could best be translated into modern times as the remembrance of heroes and victories of a nation's past and drawing upon them in times of crisis. Instead of today's focus on liberal movements like the Civil Rights movements clouding our consciousness, and the defamation of American greats due to their occasional anti-minority stance, America should remember it's great heroes such as Andrew Jackson and General MacArthur, and openly celebrate events such as VE and VJ Day as we did in the past. We should also remember and honor past Nationalist fighters such as Fr. Coughlin and Huey Long instead of shuffling them off to dark corners lest we offend someone.

Genius: Spirit of the Nation. Acknowledging the spirit of the American Nation and promoting that. America is too often seen as just a conglomeration of peoples and ideas. As 'a nation of immigrants'.

We need to take back American culture and reform it and shape it along a proud Unionist and Isolationist line; using the American national spirit during the Civil War and World War Two as examples. Promotion of one unified American identity that can be achieved by better assimilation of Immigrants, the breaking up of ghettos etc. and using the educational system as a tool to instill pride and sense of real identity within the nation's young.

Nobilitas: Nobility. Not in the literal, Monarchic sense; but a nobility of spirit and character. These days we hear far too often of corrupt politicians and school shootings, so much that we are unsurprised at the next one. This is not how it should be. The leaders of the Nations should be held accountable far more so than any member of society. Rather they should be looked up to as paragons of virtue and nationalistic spirit. To properly do this one has to clear out all the lobbyists and corporations that own government; so politicians can be allowed to do their jobs openly, with the interests of the people and state in mind; instead of the interests of Wall Street and MegaOmniCorp.

But a sense of nobilitas must also reside in the hearts of the people, replacing the shabby and faux messages of wreath, Hollywood, and popular culture. To do this the State would have to institute programmes for education and national improvement; incentives to earn jobs and educate oneself alongside work programs to help build a proper work ethic.

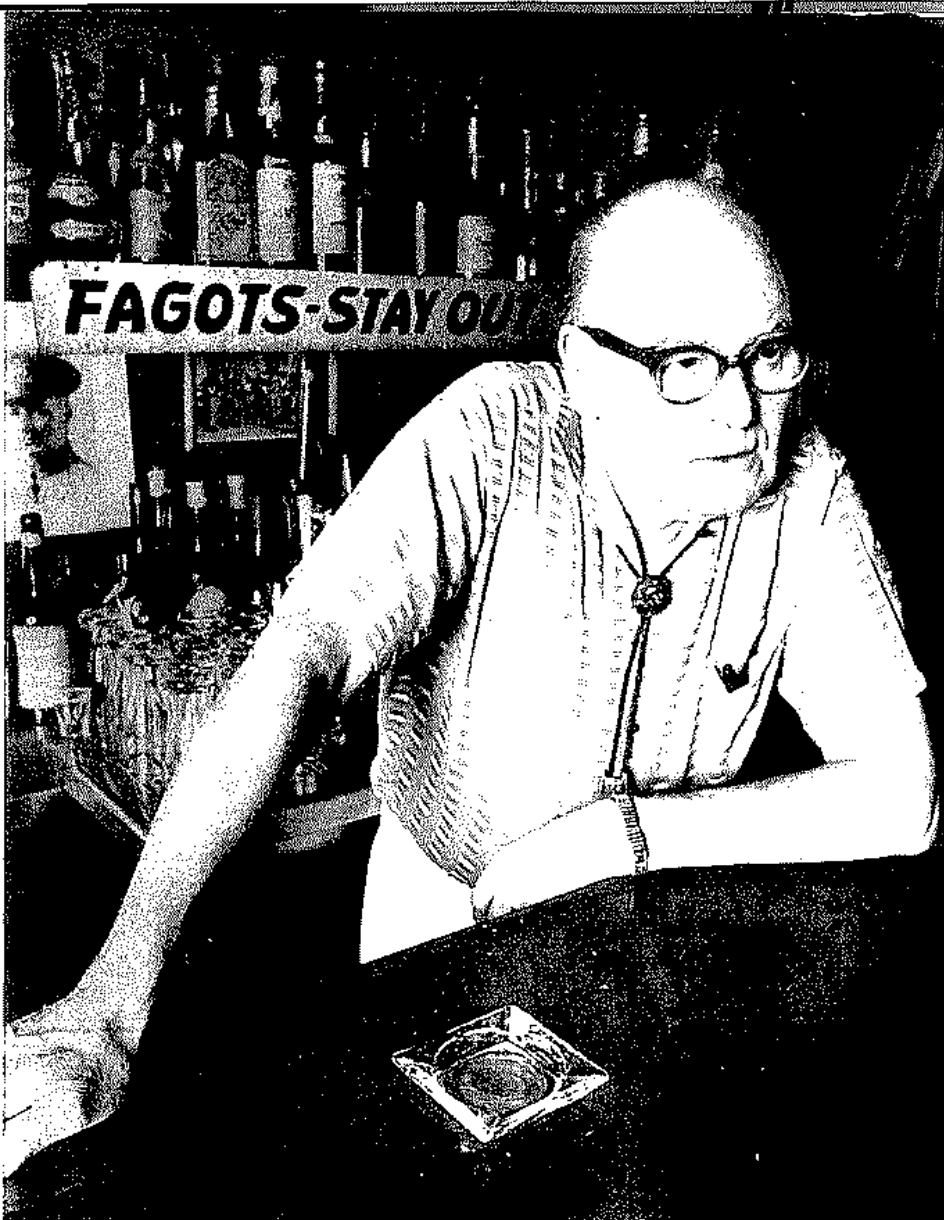

Securitas: Security and safety. It is no secret that the only true way to restore America to national greatness is through Authoritarian governance. However there are many threats within the United States that the current government is not willing to deal with; such as immigration, leftism, and Islamism.

A proper nationalistic government must take steps to curb all these threats, especially that of immigration. We should start by deporting illegals and placing a moratorium on all immigration for at least a decade; in order to carry out assimilation policies and integrate minorities and immigrants already arrived into the new national culture. Then by illegalizing secessionists and secessionist groups on charges of treason; and cracking down on leftists, socialist, and communist parties. After that, mosques should be infiltrated and bugged, in order to root out domestic Islamist terrorism. The Department of Homeland Security would be granted sweeping powers to deal with such problems. Only they can crackdowns on drugs and such begin in order to quest for a safe society.

None of these things are specific to an ideology, but are merely common-sense building blocks that can help lead to a stable nationalist society. No matter what ideology you profess within the spectrum of nationalist politics, we can all agree that things such as safety, fairness, justice are universal qualities that should be applied within the new American State. Choose just one and get working on it, or agitate for the implementation of them all. Regardless, it is these Roman qualities that can propel America to greatness.

Fags in Your Living Room - Jacob Horst

Whether it's some TV high school drama with singing faggots or a pop song inspiring legions of tweens to flap their arms effeminately, or some depressed kid trying to find acceptance in a world of nothing, homosexuality is creeping its way into your way of life.

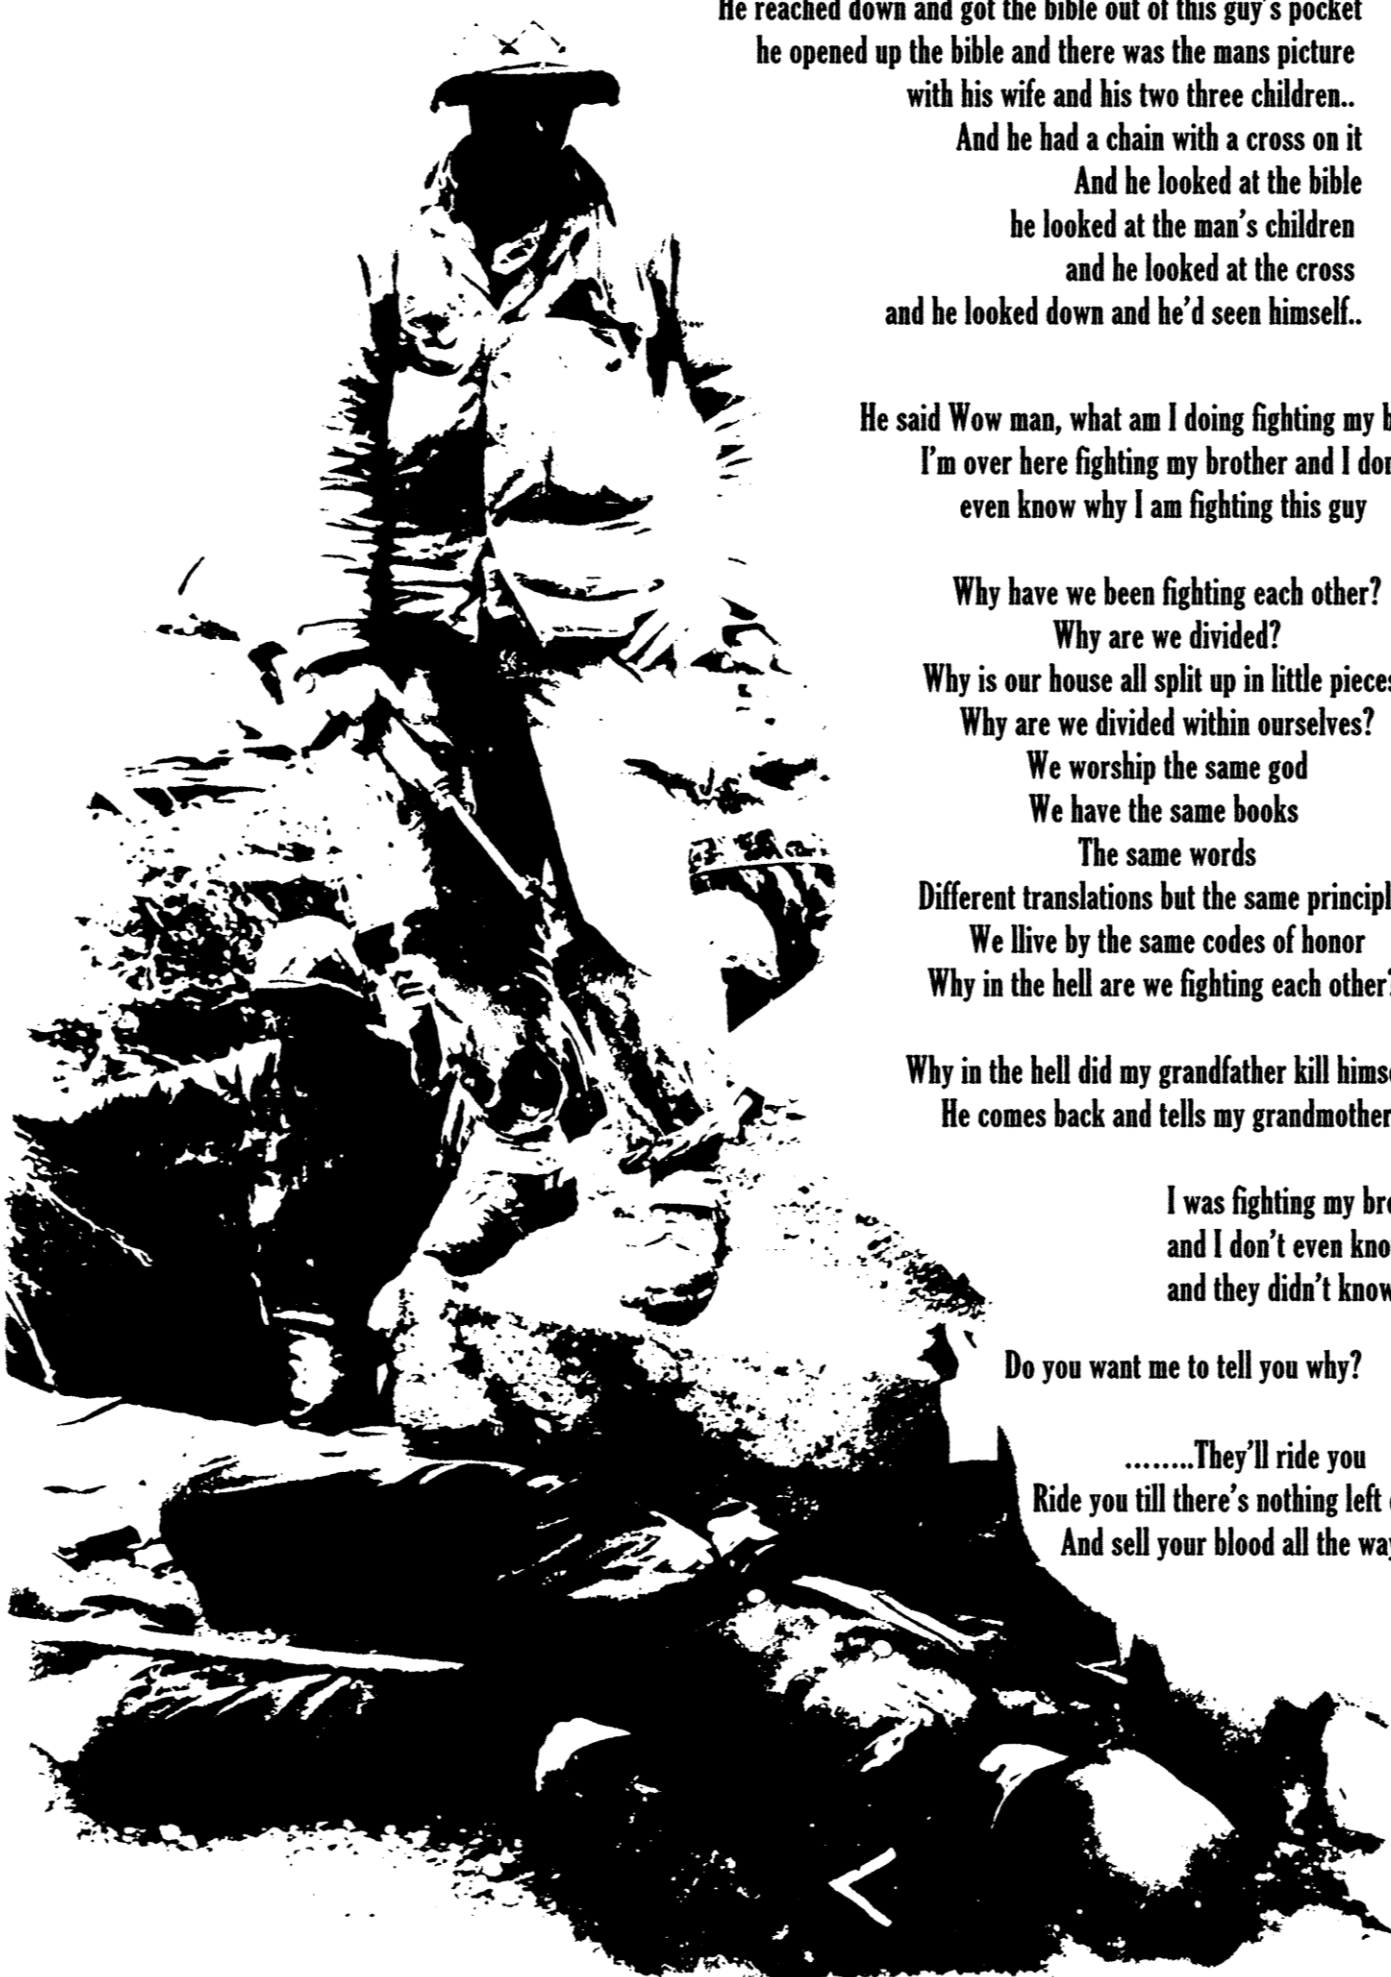

We recognize that a person's gender is based on the biological make up of what's between their legs. It's not their mind nor is it there heart. People are just wanting to be different and shocking riding the wave of the rainbow media. Everybody wants to be the oppressed minority and the underdog.

The gay pride parades are a perfect example, take a minute to type "gay pride parade" into a search engine you'll see a bunch of perverts half naked in fairy costumes, BDSM garb, painted up kissing and loving all over each other, then they DEMAND we accept them as normal. Maybe we would if they'd march in their street clothes and didn't grind on each other. The LGBT community complains about not having rights even though they can vote, they can own property, they can go anywhere they please even Churches. They are not segregated from the rest of society and they can have their civil unions.

They constantly try to compare themselves to the activists of the Civil Rights movement, however we know they already have rights and they're not getting blasted en mass by fire truck hoses or attacked with dogs. Occasionally one may be beaten down in a school or killed but that is the case of ANY one not just the faggots, but anyone setting themselves outside the norm. After a homosexual is attacked or killed the media goes ape-shit crazy with telling us we need to be more tolerant and "understand" these people. As far as I'm concerned the only thing to understand is they have some serious issues in their psyche or gene code. We need to cure it not accept it as a healthy alternative lifestyle. We don't say Obsessive Compulsive Disorder or Schizophrenia is a life choice; they are problems that we seek to cure.

Why is homosexuality such a problem? It's a sign that we are dropping our standards as a society. If we take the meaning out of what family and decency are supposed to be we are the fast track of turning into some creepy European red light district, it will happen. With homosexuality comes the individualism to use drugs and not give a care in the world to reality. It leads to escapism and a world where nothing has meaning. Boy and Girl scouts? Won't exist. Marriage? Politically incorrect.

Continuing to emasculate our society is going to destroy it, we already show tolerance to drug use and mass immigration, if nothing changes we might as well all perform ritual seppuku rather than sit back and watch as everything is swallowed up in a tidal wave of putrid AIDS. Who can stand the stench? America is like a 60 year old backed up toilet beyond the simple flushing stage – more radical measures are required.

He reached down and got the bible out of this guy's pocket
he opened up the bible and there was the mans picture with his wife and his two three children..

And he had a chain with a cross on it
And he looked at the bible
he looked at the man's children and he looked at the cross and he looked down and he'd seen himself..

He said Wow man, what am I doing fighting my brother?
I'm over here fighting my brother and I don't even know why I am fighting this guy

Why have we been fighting each other?
Why are we divided?
Why is our house all split up in little pieces?
Why are we divided within ourselves?
We worship the same god
We have the same books
The same words
Different translations but the same principles
We live by the same codes of honor
Why in the hell are we fighting each other?

Why in the hell did my grandfather kill himself?
He comes back and tells my grandmother

I was fighting my brothers and I don't even know why and they didn't know why

Do you want me to tell you why?

.....They'll ride you
Ride you till there's nothing left of you
And sell your blood all the way...

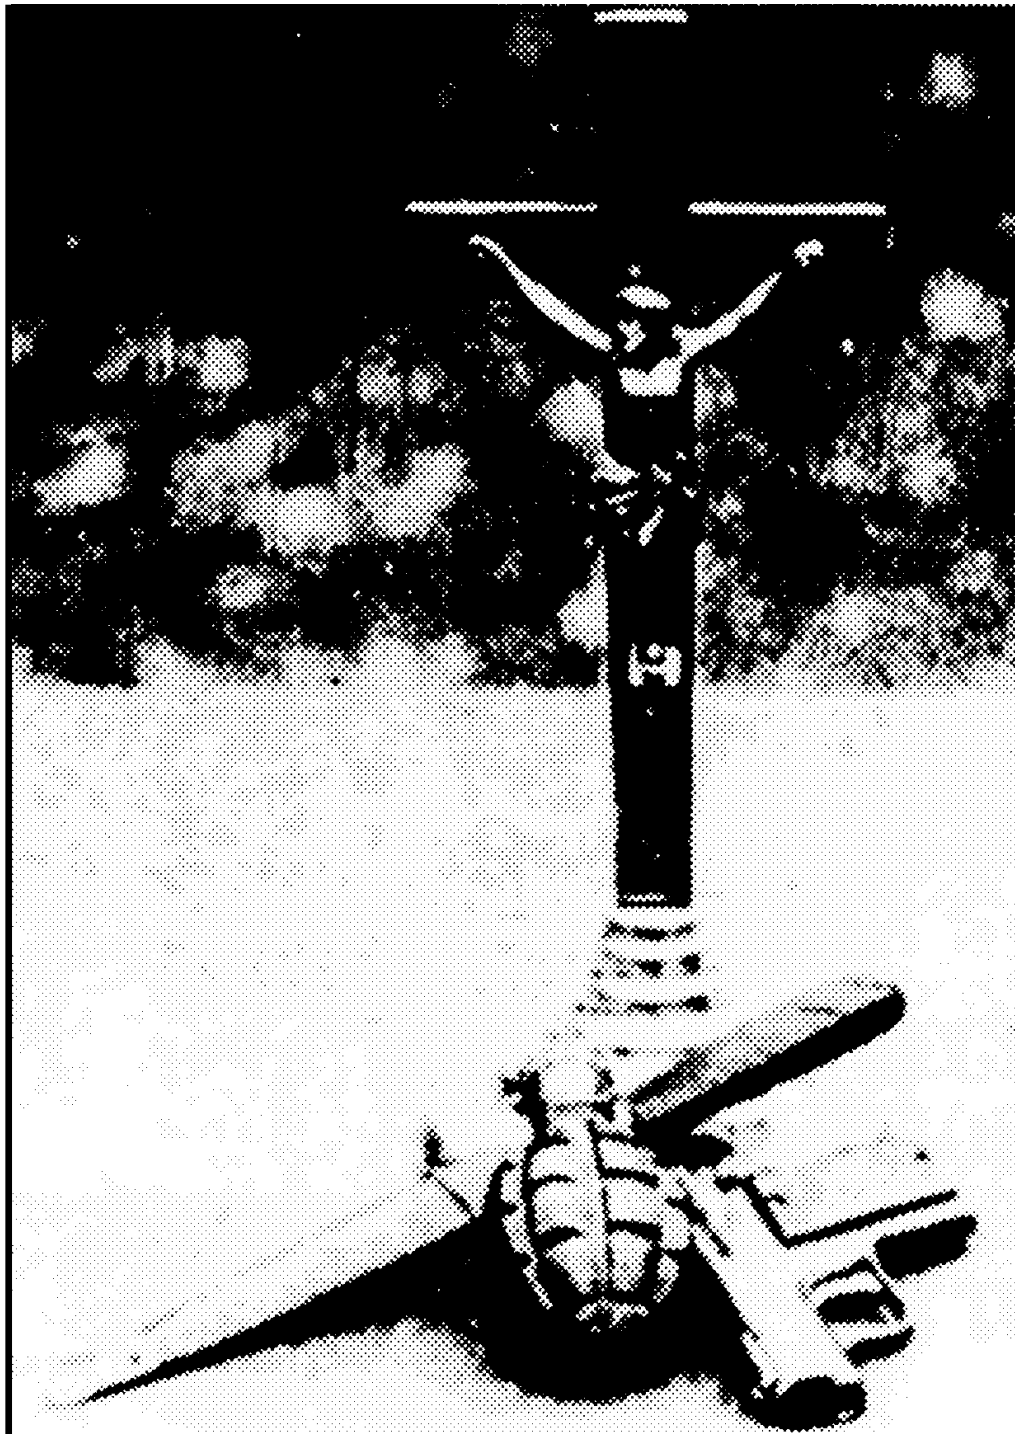

Designing a Vanguard

Part 1 - Matt Parrot

When a nation's state becomes a democracy, it is delivering itself up to be controlled and ultimately destroyed by the market. When a family business launches an IPO, "mom and pop" insist to their employees, their vendors, their customers, and their children that things will carry on as usual, even improve. And for a time, things do carry on as usual and the infusion of capital is welcomed. Modern democracy is a market and each vote is a share to be purchased. Sooner or later, a vulture capitalist like Mitt Romney is going to come along and raid its reserves, strip its assets, and sell it off piece-by-piece to further enrich himself.

Codreanu once stated that "Democracy serves big business. Because of the expensive, competitive character of the multiparty system, democracy requires ample funds. It therefore naturally becomes the servant of the big international Jewish financiers, who enslave her by paying her." He summarized his position: "In this manner, a nation's fate is placed in the hands of a clique of bankers." In theory, placing the fate of the masses into their own hands is a tempting one, but practice has proven Codreanu correct on all counts.

This is no less true for the various strains of anarchism. It's also true for "representative" and "constitutional" democracies, systems of government which merely retard but do nothing to arrest or revert capital's subversion of sovereignty. The three pillars of sovereign power--martial, managerial, and mercantile--must remain in the hands of righteous indigenous elites whose long-term interests are aligned with those of the nation's folk.

After arriving at that realization, two tremendous and seemingly insuperable challenges present themselves. The first challenge is developing an indigenous elite worthy of sovereignty. The second challenge is wresting sovereignty from the regnant oligarchy. The first problem precedes the second one, and attempts to wrestle power from this regnant oligarchy while no competent replacements have been developed are not merely pointless, they're actually dangerous.

Battling with this oligarchy will only strengthen it, and defeating it risks resulting in its being replaced by one without the known weaknesses this one has and without the record of failure and betrayal this one has amassed over the decades. Fourth generation warfare considerations dictate the exoteric form of the nascent vanguard. It will necessarily be a distributed and cell-driven nomocratic "movement" similar in design to Al Qaeda or Anonymous.

The laws which govern it must contain a clear roadmap, with highly secured propagandists (not unlike Bin Laden or Julian Assange) inspiring its adherents and directing its action. To the extent that any formal organization is possible, it will necessarily occur through highly autonomous proxies with either plausible deniability or defensive cover from sovereign elites abroad.

The first pillar of sovereignty: managerial power, is that of ideas, myths, and transcendent ideals. Historically, America's fascists have made the mistake of falling back on Protestant traditions, failing to appreciate how its integrally anti-hierarchical sola scriptura design renders castrates it in terms of organization and power projection. William Dudley Pelley's "silver shirts" rallied in support of a transcendent ideal, but there was no priesthood or tradition behind it. White Nationalist attempts at constructing a religion out of the "laws of nature" or "natural selection" through Dr. Pierce's "Cosmotheism" or Ben Klassen's "White Man's Bible" got the relationship between religion and Restoration wrong on both an exoteric and an esoteric level. The Christian Identity movement came the closest to getting it right, and can actually boast several thousand adherents who've radically altered their lifestyles and come together in a revolutionary spirit in support of both tribe and transcendence. While the 19th century LDS movement and the 20th century Scientology movement both prove that hierarchical religious organizations can indeed be devised and implemented within mere decades, there's no reason to re-invent the wheel.

A revolutionary vanguard which were to embrace either the Muslim Brotherhood's preferred version of Islam, or the LDS, Catholic, or Orthodox priesthoods would have a ready-built brain, backbone, and reproductive system awaiting it. Having outsourced the managerial sovereignty to an indigenous priesthood allied with an overarching global network of managerial elites, the vanguard would necessarily need to be at once a martial and mercantile elite. While direct combat would be inadvisable until the latest developmental stage, secure communication, intelligence, and propaganda organs are the necessary and achievable goals of a nascent elite engaged in fourth generation warfare. Bullets and bombs are antiquated and unnecessary. What we need are darknets, distributed intelligence gathering and analysis frameworks, and innocuous proxies.

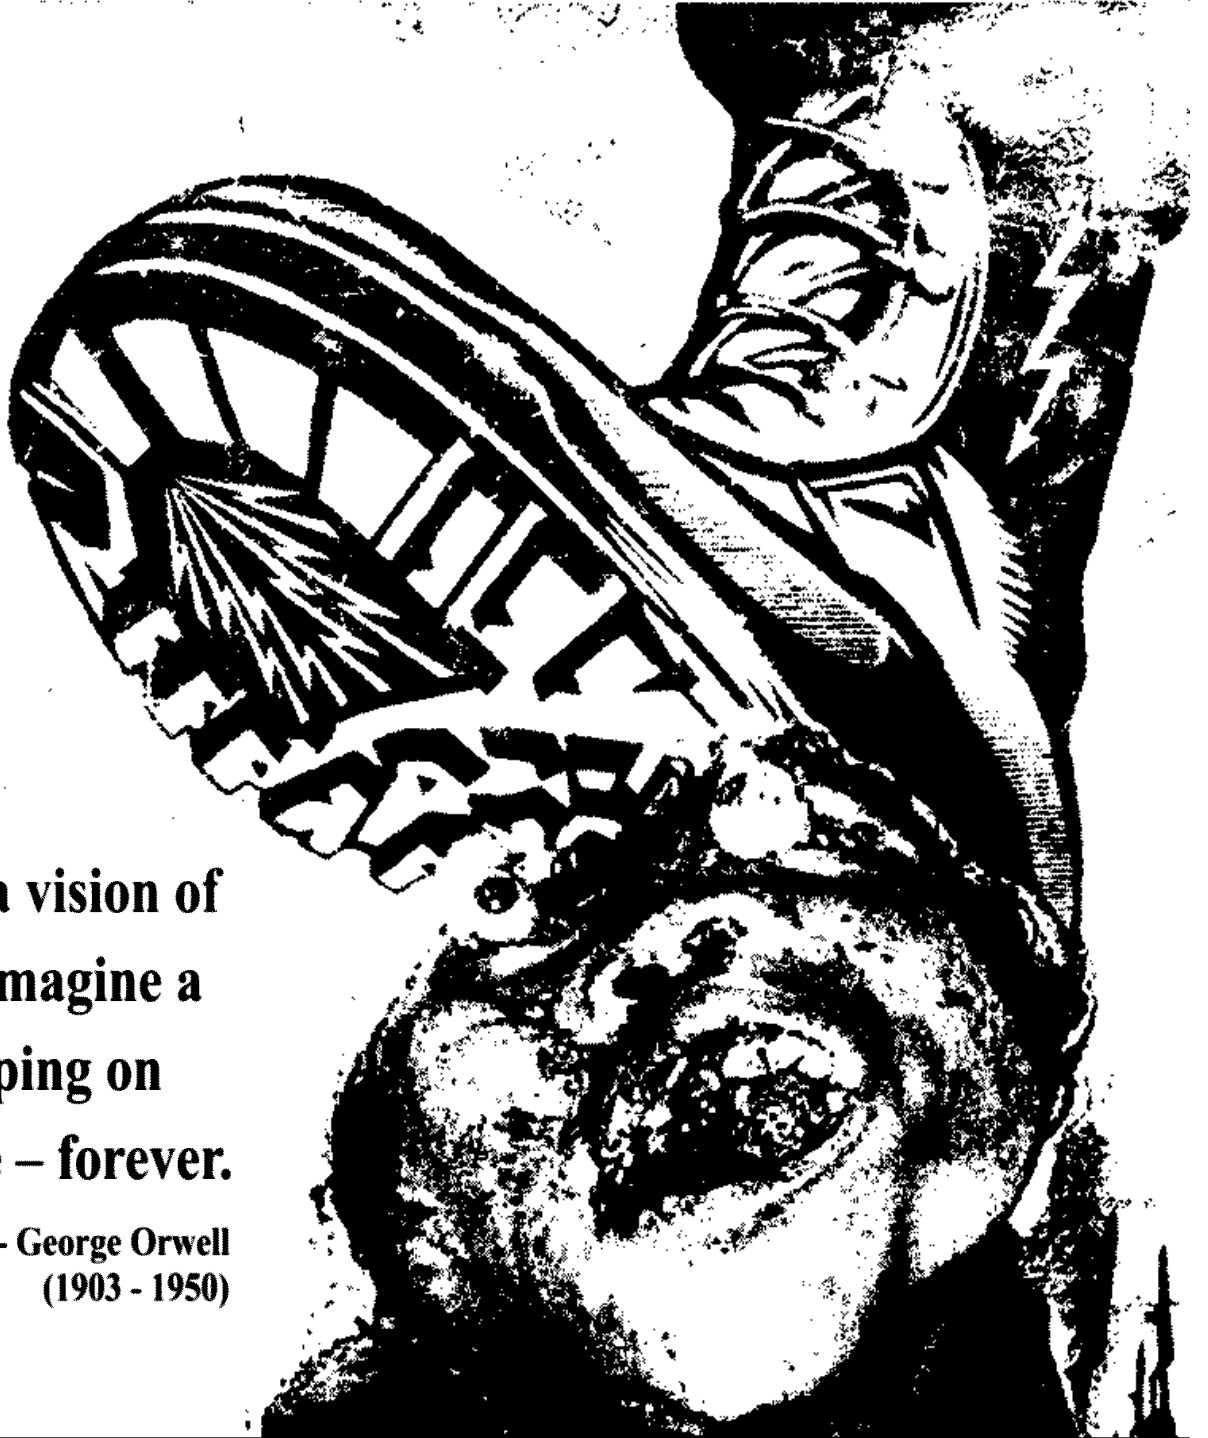

Once power is seized, the keystone of mercantile sovereignty is control of the monetary system. At this early stage in the game, mercantile power should be developed through autonomous financial support networks and--most importantly--a highly secretive and highly disciplined shadow union. The motto must be "work is war" and the individual cells must invest more time in infiltrating workplaces and securing the positions of comrades than in recruitment, indoctrination, and political soldiering...combined.

The single greatest vulnerability of the current system is in its unfettered and unregulated capitalist compulsion. Jews exploited this loophole to climb into power generations ago, but the ladder remains. Quietly and consistently favoring fellow adherents will be a far more effective recruitment method than any pamphlet or speech, as increasingly marginalized White Americans will see in their participation an opportunity for employment and economic advancement. Most critically, the shareholders of the corporations are integrally incapable of resisting the profit motive even when its pursuit undermines their own positions.

What corporation would be inclined to ferret out a cohort of employees who make a religious crusade out of productivity, quality, efficiency, and integrity? As the society becomes more decadent, undisciplined, unfit, and untrustworthy, employers can and will pay a shadow union of unusually eager employees to drive up their profit margins. Lenin famously asserted that the capitalists will gladly sell us the rope to hang themselves with, and this is merely the application of that principle.

The legionary should know that the Legion will conquer all factions, all the obstacles that lie in its path.

THE NEW AMERICA

-William Drake

The America of the early 21st century is in a state of turmoil. We turn on the news and see the skyrocketing unemployment rates, over priced goods, civil unrest and protests, military conflicts, and a host of other disparaging sights and images. For the first time in close to a century, a large portion of the American public wakes up wondering how they are going to feed their family today or which late bill to make a payment on. What is going on? Who is to blame? What can be done? Where is OUR country?

We have no foreseeable end to our current economic crisis. That we can be sure of. There is no shining light for which we can crawl towards. Many Americans wake up and are filled with an all encompassing sense of dread and despair. They have been consumed by a pure nihilism that has infected their very soul and being, crushing their sense of nationality and spirituality. America has no moral guiding principles...we have fallen into a state of utter decay.

I love my country. I love my God. I love my family. I am a man and, damn it, I will not see any of those things fall and crumble in my life time, even if I have to die for them. It is time we, as Americans, stand up for America. Our country, our state, our nation, has been there to protect us every single step of the way. It is time we start acting on President Kennedy's famous words. We are selfish, we have been taught that the only person who matters is me and that everyone can get rich quick and live comfortably. History has proven this egalitarian non-sense to be a lie. Yes. A lie. The American dream is a lie. America, the gem of the Enlightenment and of egalitarianism, was founded upon a lie. It is time we rectify this and begin to create a nation of Americans, not a country of individuals. We have plenty of precedence for this movement. Going all the way back to our founding, men, great men, such as Alexander Hamilton and John Adams knew the need for centralization. For unity. For power and for strength.

Where are those men now?

Columbia has fallen. Will you let her beautiful body be torn to shreds by the wolves of modernity? Or will you stand, as men, and pick up her sword and slay the beasts of time? Will you raise her and restore her to her glory and unite under her heaving breast with an exclamation of "God bless America"? This is my call to arms, my call to you.

There is no cause too grand or struggle too great that Americans, unified, cannot overcome. We have repeatedly defeated the greatest nations on Earth, have overcome economic turmoil much like our present conditions, and even led the way in the colonization of space. All this from a nation of farmers and factory workers, We, as Americans, need to wake up and shake off the guise of liberalism and individualism, the hallmarks of modernity, and unite once again. This time, to save our country from implosion. America must be strong. Our people must restore their sense of patriotism. We must have unity.

All this is well and good, I am sure you say, but how do you do that? How does a "nation of immigrants" become a nation with a unique spiritual existence? The first thing is to remove such inane concepts as "nation of immigrants" from your mind. We are not immigrants. We are Americans. You are not an Italian if you have never stepped foot in Italy. You are not German, Irish, Spanish, Brazilian, African, Japanese, Chinese, Korean. You are all Americans. This history of this country, tumultuous at times in the area of ethnic relations, is all of our history. Whether you are a second generation Peruvian or of typical "white" American stock (actually an amalgamation of Anglo-Saxon, German, Scottish, Irish, Native Indian, and African) with little knowledge of your family's history, know that you all share in the American narrative and both have equal claims to our country.

Do not be a hyphenated American. Be an American. We will not, at least not in the foreseeable future, have the wide scale miscegenation necessary for a biological American race, different than those of Europe, Asia, and Africa. However, the spiritual race, the will of our people working collectively under the banner of Americanism, can be fostered through dedication to country and countryman.

Yes, we must begin fostering unity. Our new America will be unified. With a cohesive sense of culture and national identity. There are two mistakes we must never let ourselves fall into. 1.) We must never accept that America has no culture. Every time this comment arises we must ruthlessly tear to pieces. We must show the masses that liberal modernism and capitalist consumerism are not what America is about but are the same diseases that plague Europe, Asia and elsewhere in the world. 2.) We must never let anyone tell us nationhood and national identity must come along racial lines. We are Americans, we are the new Rome. Like our historical counterparts, we have people from all walks of life spread throughout our country, all of whom are Americans. If you pledged your allegiance to Rome and put Rome first, you were a Roman. So it has been in America.

What is the first thing we must strive for? I believe it to be complete, across the board, literacy and fluency in the English language. We as Americans must not tolerate this. We will not become a polyglot country of various sub-groups. English has been our mother tongue since the colonization of the wilderness and the establishment of our country. We must be diligent in this, despite the social inconveniences it may cause. English first.

I urge people to refuse to do business with those who obviously have limited to no skills in our language, be it through avoiding them or outright keeping them out of your place of business. It is against the law to refuse service to someone based on sex, race, religion, or national identity. Not because they cannot (or in most cases, simply will not) communicate with you. We must focus on English education in schools, especially for families of immigrants or of non-English speakers. These children must receive intensive training, especially as English will most likely not be spoken inside their home. These children must encourage their parents to learn and speak English and resources must be made available to them. When I talk about immigrants, we need to make something completely clear. An immigrant is one who has left his or her country and decided to become an American citizen, through the legal and established process of immigration. It is absolutely sickening that we, as a people, allow thousands of undocumented criminals (simply being in this country without documents is illegal thus, these people are all criminals) into this country. The Southwest is facing an identity crisis as more and more of these criminals flood into our country, use our resources, and exploit our system. National Guard troops along with private citizen security forces must begin to work with each other to provide real border defense and patrol. Not a single foot of our borders should be unprotected. Coming into this country illegally is tantamount to invasion. Invasion is war. Illegal immigrants should be thought of as enemy combatants. Those arriving at the border must be turned away, those who try, in various elaborate plans, to sneak in, should be shot. This is reality, America. It is time to wake up.

We must, as citizens, do our part at home. Report businesses you suspect of hiring undocumented workers immediately. Then boycott them. If you overhear someone saying they know or are in this country illegally, report them when you are safe to do so. Your country needs you to defend the sanctity of citizenship. Do not let the liberal cries of "they are people too" and "no borders" persuade you. These people are soulless, immoral traitors who would give their children to a mob if it meant not hurting someone's feelings. They have no spine. You are doing the right thing.

America, as has been stated, is a nation of many people. These people have spiritual beliefs that span centuries and millennia. I have no want or need to come between a man and his God as long as he does not let this personal relationship change his relationship with his country. I support every Christian, Muslim, Jew, atheist, pagan, Buddhist, Hindu, Sikh, and Jain who is able to keep his spiritual practices to himself and not become part of an exclusive group whose interests run counter to those of our new America. If he does, he must be rebuffed and he must be denied worship. Freedom of religion does not mean freedom to be treasonous to this country. If the mainstream Muslim community has a falling out with America then America will have a falling out with Muslims. Or Jews. Or Christians. Or Buddhists. Or anyone that tries to let their own personal spiritual beliefs dictate the will of our people. America, much to the dismay of Republicans and various other conservatives, is not and was not a Christian nation. That is to say, we were never a country founded on Christian principles or with a Biblical backing.

We are one of the most non-theocratic states in the world. However, it needs to be accepted that the overwhelming majority of Americans identify with the Christian faith. We must seek a healthy balance between promoting our national, Christian character and not ostracizing other citizens.

So what can you do? How can you help generate a cohesive feeling of American unity and identity? Start small. Start local. Talk to your neighbors. My God, this seems so alien to us but there are people living right next to us. Talk to them. Get to know them. Befriend them. Invite them over to dinner and show them hospitality. Help them in their time of need. Put their needs ahead of yours. You will, undoubtedly, get those who will be completely unreceptive to this. That is fine, you are probably better off not knowing them. Smile and wave when you see them and still extend help when it is obvious they need it.

Building larger, get involved in your neighborhood or community. Attend events and set up block parties and functions. Create an environment where your children are safe to play. My parents were free to run and play outside all day 45 years ago because someone in the neighborhood was bound to be able to keep an eye on them. Those people were trusted. We must be able to trust our children with our neighbors and our community. That is the kind of unity we must see. Actively keep the degenerate elements of society out of your community. We must be welcoming but we must welcome those who fit our ideas and who will help us restore our country. Drug users and especially peddlers must be removed immediately.

Criminals should be removed. Those who refuse to speak English must be ostracized and not accepted. Those with un-American sympathies must be removed. Push for strict and stringent rules regarding who can and cannot live in your community. When you say "The people this town will not tolerate this kind of filth!" you must be able to say it with conviction and the backing of the entire community.

Through all this we must remain steadfast in our beliefs and keep America first in our minds. Do not waiver and do not let others intimidate you. You are not a bigot, you are not a snitch, you are not ignorant. You are a good American. You are the kind of person America needs.

Americans carved out the greatest nation on the face of the Earth from the rugged wilderness through sheer will power and strength. We must encourage this kind of attitude always. We must remember our pioneer spirit and our drive to make our country a better place than when we came to it. We must be rugged, strong and tough. Men must be masculine. Women must be feminine.

The image of the American man in this day and age is a late 20 something in a business suit with a briefcase and an office job. This is a soulless existence and does nothing to develop strong imagery. We most extol the virtues of hard work and struggle. Our country was and still is made up of farmers, factory workers, builders, etc. We are a blue collar nation, without question. We should be promoting these kinds of jobs and not looking down on them like the liberal intelligentsia are so prone to do. "Oh...you're a construction worker?" That kind of speech must be eliminated. Our men must become like iron again. We must become strong. Military service, police services, rescue services all once domains of the purely masculine man have now become a hodge podge of people with more "gender rights legislation" than I can stomach. We must define roles in our society and in America. As it has always been, men provide for their families through sweat, hard work, and determination. Men must be fathers and husbands. The family unit is controlled by them and its success is solely in their hands.

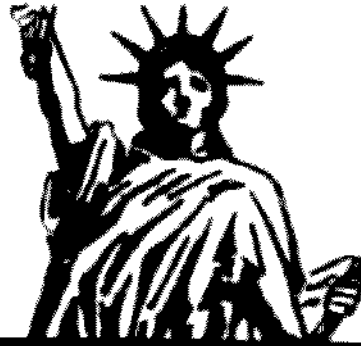

American women are the most beautiful and intelligent breed on the face of the Earth. We must treat them with utmost respect and dignity. Every one of them. The objectification of women in our media is vile and disgusting and any true American should be outraged to see the way our women are treated. Of course, modern liberal society tells us this is okay. It is okay to view a woman purely for the purpose of sex. Viewing a woman in her traditional role of homemaker? As soft and delicate? As beautiful? The modern world views it all with contempt. Women must do their part in being strong mothers for their children and dutiful wives to their husband. The home is their domain and its success is in their hands. Each family member has a role and to strip or destroy these roles is to generate a family that is

No more Americans from broken homes. The American family will no longer be a joke but one to be respected. Who are the enemies of America? They are vast and are everywhere, in this country and out. To examine them all could fill libraries, however, I will try to highlight the ones I feel are the biggest detriment to our national identity.

The first are liberals. I do not mean liberals as in Democrats or those on the far-left. I mean classical liberals. Liberalism preaches the importance of the self over the whole and egalitarianism. It destroys hierarchy and traditional roles in society. It seeks to create a society of selfish, ignorant consumers who seek nothing but their own pleasure and care little to the plight of their fellow countryman. Be they on the left or the right (the spectrum all falls under classical liberalism in this country) they are rotting our nation away. The conservatives in this country simply pay lip-service to the values I have extolled. Many are just as backwards and un-American as their partisan opponents. America was founded on liberalism. It is time this changes. We must accept we were wrong. That the enlightenment was doomed to failure and that the egalitarianism preached is a false doctrine that does more to divide than to unite. We must seek out and destroy every modern institution that has plagued our nation for too long and warped the mind of the people. Communism, capitalism, feminism, leftism...these are only a few. Americans will not be known as soft or weak. We will not tolerate degeneracy. We will not tolerate greed. We simply cannot. Repel these systems and fight them back at all costs.

The next is academia. Our country has produced some of the greatest minds the world has ever known.

SEAL AMERICA

against TRAITORS

Modern technology simply would not exist without the brilliance of Americans. Over the last 30 years though we have dramatically fallen in international rankings. Why is this? Because education in this country is used as an indoctrination camp for weak, liberal philosophy and anti-Americanism. Our students are taught a politically correct doctrine that squashes patriotism, promotes individuality, and glorifies degenerate "alternative" lifestyles and primitive cultures. It is often joked that when one goes to college, their tassel is not the only thing that moves to the left. To be educated in this country simply means to be a well read Marxist. Our schools do not even mandate the Pledge of Allegiance any more. It is an optional activity, with most students opting out. This kind of insolence and disobedience needs to be dealt with immediately. Every American student, upon beginning the school day, must know that they are enriching their mind not for themselves but for their country and their people.."

The opponent to our success that will cause a sharp break between myself and members of the Republican party is capitalism. Capitalism and the free-market need to be eradicated from America. The cries of "America is a capitalist country!" are false.

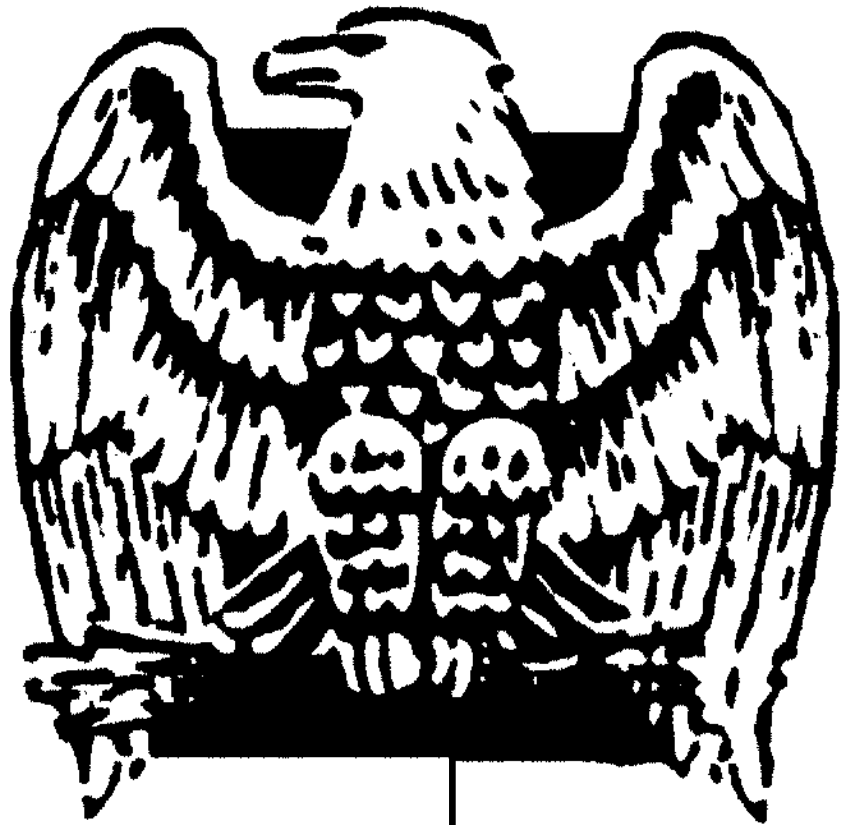

We are a mixed market economy and we lean very much towards the capitalist side of things. But government planning and regulation has been a part of our history since the beginning. In the last 100 years we have seen a huge push for social welfare programs that would guarantee a livable standard for Americans who are unable to provide for themselves.

We have seen a dramatic increase in the calls for wealth redistribution. This is not a new phenomenon. Every American must know that his nation will take care of him just as he would take care of his self, his family, and his neighbor. When this is done, the Americans will want to take care of their country. How can you, on good conscience, let your fellow American starve while you have so much? Those who manipulate the economic system and produce wealth with no real work are the antithesis to the American spirit. They are crooks and criminals and do not deserve the right to be considered Americans. It is our duty to ensure that all Americans have their needs met in order to better advance our people and country. Businessmen who care about profits more than their countries are traitors and should be dealt with as such. Outsourcing of jobs, using cheap foreign resources, hiring illegal immigrants. All of these need to be punishable offenses. There is no excuse for this.

Anyone who sells out their countrymen to the highest bidder deserves to be strung up and hanged from their high rise apartment by the starving poor.

The final enemy I wish to address is anyone, domestic or foreign, who attempts to divide our people. Who attempts to destroy our unity and our national identity through base ideologies. As has been said, it does not matter your race, your religion, your ethnicity, your sex, your geographic location. We are Americans and we must each do our unique part in saving this country and creating a cohesive American spirit. Anyone who says "He cannot be an American, he's a nigger" should be treated with the utmost contempt. It cannot be tolerated. When groups of people mark themselves as being decidedly anti-American and become exclusive in nature, then they may be marked as traitors. When they do not share our vision of a new America of untold strength, then they can be viewed as enemies. But these declarations must be made by the groups through their words and actions. Every citizen in this country is an American. End of discussion.

As we move to a new age in America we must reevaluate what it means to be an American. An American is no longer a weak, individualist, liberal with no sense of identity. Why should citizenship be granted to those who do not portray our ideal vision of the future? Why should those who would see our country destroyed be given a right to participate in our glorious Republic? This is like handing a loaded gun to your enemy, stepping back and saying "open fire!". These people must have their citizenship stripped and have all rights removed as Americans. This includes the right to our benefits, our jobs, our land, and contact with our people. Non-Americans and anti-Americans will simply be denied any role in society.

They cannot be allowed to toil away as serfs, their very being in our country is a threat to our existence. These people, remnants of the old, degenerate, stupid, and lazy of America should be deported en masse out of this nation. Citizenship will actually be based on being a citizen and not a lump of mass occupying a space in time. We must all take part in our civic duties to help our people to unite and grow as well as to support our country. No more free rides for those not willing to pitch in.

We have seen precedence for this kind of strong, united nation. We have seen it in our very beginning. It was the first great struggle of our country. The Federalist faction calling for a strong centralized system with the Democratic-Republicans preaching their liberal doctrine of individualism and limited government power. We saw it in the 1860s when treasonous aristocrats sought to remove themselves from our Union and were thoroughly vanquished by a driving desire for a United States of America.

We saw it in the 1930s during the last great economic catastrophe, when men united together to strengthen the role of the nation as a whole in order to better help their countryman. We must end the waves of liberalism telling us that life is great and we should be free to do what we want. We will slide into degeneracy and into pure anarchy if left to live like this. We have reached that point in our country's history and as has been said, I will be damned if I am going to let that happen. Today is the start of a new day and a dawning of a new America. An America that will reach its fullest potential and be a beacon of humanity. An America of strength, unity, courage, power and cunning. We are the foot soldiers pushing for a return to our united way of life. We are the ones fighting to keep our country safe, healthy, and strong. It is our duty as Americans to raise our flag back up to its former glory. After everything we have done for ourselves, after every time we have been saved by our country, it is time we ask what we can do for it. It is time for a new America.

Aurini's model for the 'military'- industrial complex

Our enemy, be it the antifascist in the street, the bleeding heart intellectual, the watch groups, everyone who harasses us, changes the laws or makes life difficult; they are the ones who 99% of the time come down on top of us and seem so powerful and well organized. Look back on your school days; the posters on the wall, the people who came to talk to you, the books you had to read – aside from being cultural Marxist brainwashing (and you are only just starting to figure that out) was really sectarian in its essence. The dumb college protestors who mobilize against us, these unwashed stoners are all paid by government organizations with money that is conceptually yours to stand around with these placards against you! Oh, and as for groups like the SPLC are basically they could just be an arm of the government, but who elected them?

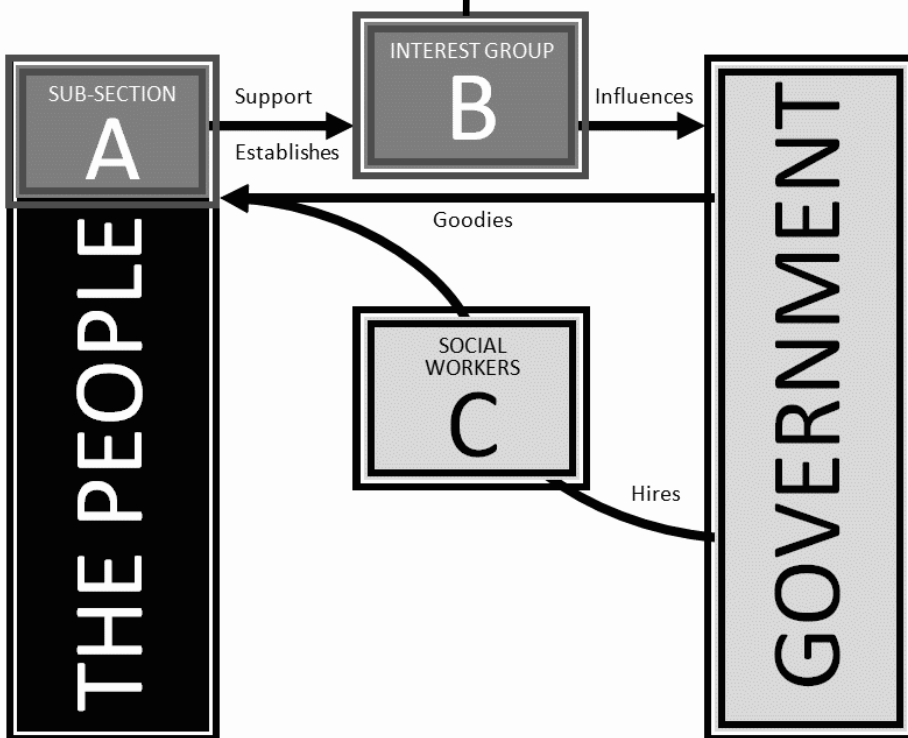

I don't want to be accused of being mean but our conspiracy rabbits are really slow when it comes to joining up the dots.

An example of this is the way most of them interpret the term 'military industrial complex' – this has been taken by RIGHT WING people to literally mean an indictment of the military, almost in the sense of anti-imperialism, in addition to corruption which is only a half truth. Yeah, we don't even need to talk about all the profiteering and bleeding that goes on in Washington but it doesn't actually bring us closer to understanding the problem, so we are going to explain it all here for you real simple. Now the origin of the term 'Military industrial complex' derives from the farewell address of President Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1961 which was a warning about the dangers of misplaced power that come with government complexes. An original draft of the speech cites the "military-industrial-congressional complex" meaning the significance of those put into congress – so the whole political system. Indeed why this was changed, or not simply the 'Media industrial complex' may have something more do with the forces in play at this time and some of the interesting friends in that Ike acquired, though that is another story.

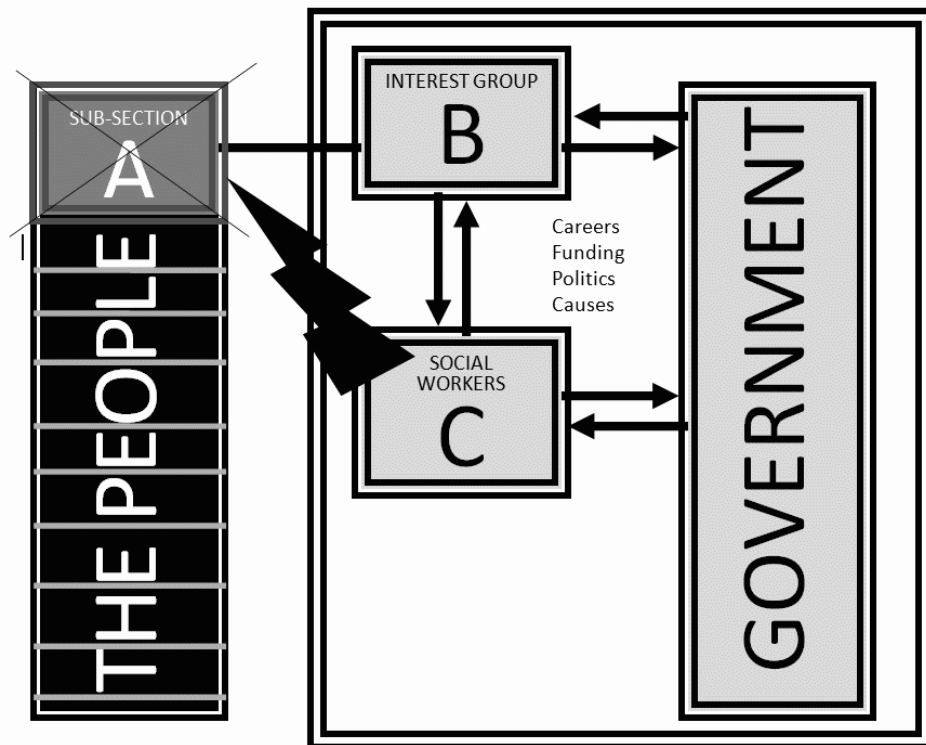

No idiots, what we are talking about is the entire structure, and what we have here is a model, the understanding of which will help us explain the political system we have today. Without a clear understanding of the situations we cannot hope to
 A) Know what we are up against
 B) Oppose the system
 The implications for this are far reaching and should act as a warning in how we conduct politics in the future.

The model starts with this; In a democracy you have THE PEOPLE, an electorate to which the GOVERNMENT is supposedly beholdant – but there is a group in this population, subsection A. SUB SECTION A can represent any politicized minority in the population; Ethnic groups, Religious minorities, Feminists, Faggots, etc. Some of them get together and they organize and raise money into the creation of INTEREST GROUP B – these can not only be represented by 'community leaders' but institutions for all sorts of causes – Environmentalists, third world aid, Foreign Governments, international organizations; anything that can mobilize a base.

The leaders Group B approach the government with their whining claiming that if they do not meet their demands to address their issues they can mobilize their base and at the very least threaten to negatively affect the outcome of an election. The government co-operates and they send a disproportionate amount of concessions and goodies to SUB SECTION A. This is bad but not terrible – democratic political commentators say that this makes things more democratic and interesting – those who organize are those with the most legitimate grievances so we take their considerations more seriously.

The civil rights cause for instance is supposed to be the greatest achievement of American political history to which a considerable portion of the federal calendar is dedicated with history months and official holidays. But what happens next though is INTEREST GROUP B is invited to join the government when GROUP C is formed whose job is to administer to the interests of GROUP A, and are drawn from GROUP B in the form of appointments to government, media, and especially the education system. This means that INTEREST GROUP B that was raised by SUB-SECTION A gets its power from the government. It is in power by way of patronage, the money it receives from SUB-SECTION A is mindless and unconditional and the money flows between all parties. What develops over time is an incestuous relationship where the same individuals will switch and occupy the three groups. They start off in the 'grass roots' organization, and they become civic leaders with a state salary, they then run for office and become politicians, when they retire they are rewarded with their own special University department; Department of Gender Studies, The Department of Human Rights, The Department of Gender Studies. In short GROUP B always ends up replacing A, and becomes part of the elite. Not only was the original SUB-SECTION A, rendered to powerless rump, but there is a darker side to it all. This complex thrives on the maintenance of the status quo – they NEED causes, they NEED a mindless agitated base – and this bloated cancer runs through the whole of government. How aware are we all that equality can never be achieved for the struggling minorities – that is why. DISCRIMINATION and VICTIMHOOD have to be instilled into the population for the continued existence of these parasites. The hosts, they can never be fixed - if anything it is in the interest of civic leaders like Al

Sharpton and Jesse Jackson to continued poor conditions must be perpetuated. A problem must remain a problem, if not through design then by deception, and this is where the myths of the liberals come from – why they are so concerned about everything, why they must raise awareness for everything – it is the gasping of parasitical overlords who must keep the whole charade gasping and wheezing along, until the host can no longer take the weight.

It used to be the case that workers unions had a genuine purpose – to improve the conditions of American workers, who were being brutally exploited by those who abused their positions of wealth and power lacking foresight, conscience, and patriotism. Today the union is a tool of high politics and those who pay are the millions of workers denied essential system services and lose back pay. Heavy concessions to the high muscle unions have meant greater abuse for others – the common Wal-Mart employee who has no economic rights. Who would have predicted fifty years ago that American manufacturing is so unprofitable that the whole economy was shipped overseas to red china?

The warped sense of entitlement promoted everywhere, instilled everywhere, even by our own, brother against brother until the stupid masses divided and conquered collapse and wonder why the harder they fight the worse things get.

With this comes a warning. It is the duty of all to oppose entitlement, and to oppose intrigue. All democratic revolutions thus far have succumbed to it and failed. Beware those who go out of their way try to act like politicians and those who sell you victimhood; The white nationalist leader, the David Dukes of this world. Congratulations, you got free shit, but at what cost? They all have their own agenda, and it is one that thrives on rapes, thrives on murders, thrives on the destruction of our people for its life blood. Stupid and weak leaders who make politician promises are as sure a mark of slavery as the iron chains that are yet to come.

Therefore to overcome this democratic system requires a political community that is totalitarian, in which there is no division. One Nation triumphant with the bodies of politicians swinging from street lights.

Interview: 'Ferret'

'Ferret' is a platoon leader, 1LT in the United States Army, Air Defense Artillery, a combat arms branch concerned with destroying air and ballistic missile assets. He has kindly given us his perspective

Why did you join the military?

I joined the military about two months after graduation. I hated my prospects, this was 2009 and the economy was in the shitter. I hated that the Financial sector of Wall Street capitalism had destroyed my country, I hated that my chance of success was curtailed because jobs were being shed to stop the economic bleeding caused by billionaires. At the time I joined, I was working part time at a political phone survey company, and it was an egregious affront on my dignity to be held on the vine. I was borrowing money from my father, who was also unemployed in this period, I was ashamed of my situation.

I went to a recruiter, mainly because I felt the military might be able to square me away, and because I wanted the time I spent laboring to mean something. If you labor your life away for a paycheck, well, I cannot think of a more disgusting and misguided use of your time. Luckily for me, I scored a 97 on the ASVAB military test, with a 135 GT score and they offered me the opportunity to go to Officer Candidate School, in which I passed and got my commission.

What are your general political sympathies/ views if you have any?

I won't say that I read the Fascist Doctrine first, and then adhered myself to the views stated. I had my views first, which were Leftist, but as time and experience weighed itself on my conscience, I started shifting to the Right. I'm American, but have little to say to Conservatives, who are usually synonymous with Christians, as I am a devout Atheist.

I was a History buff, I have a Bachelors of Science in Political Science, with minors in History and Sociology. I began my own personal research in the Interwar period, and my sympathy's drastically left the Communist revolutionaries, and became quite sympathetic to the men who fought in the First World War who came to power in their countries to save it from Internationalist Sovietism, the destroyer of civilizations.

I view myself as a variation of 1920's Italian Fascism. I view it as a template, to be modified to work within the context of 2010's USA. Will it be the same? No. It shouldn't. I don't even have a completely thought out political process, I just know where I am originating for at this point.

What made you come to this?

I grew up in a trailer park in East Texas, I grew up viewing the poverty and hopelessness that a lot of American society faces. I was for a very long time a rabid Leftist, an opponent of both Christian reactionary thought, and Capitalist exploitation of the lower classes of American society. In my teenage years, I was into Punk music.

The violence, the aggression, the energy, it was beautiful, it didn't adhere to the idea that I had to shut up and sit down. I was vibrant, I resonated energy, I had charisma, it was tapped into by violent aggressive music.

I was also intelligent and had foresight. I knew that where I was, a trailer park in the backwater areas of Houston, was not going to get me to any level of success or greatness. I went without excessive partying, drugs, drinking, all that nonsense, I knew that I had to do well in school and get to the next level. This I did. I put myself through University, and although I did my share of partying and drinking, I never lost sight. I couldn't! This wasn't daycare for some spoiled brat, this was my future, and I accomplished my goal of getting a bachelor's degree.

What is the outlook of the average servicemen?

The average service member, in the year 2012, is against the war in Afghanistan; I work in a training facility. Our doctrine is unabashedly to make the Afghan political process happy. The country of Afghanistan is fleecing us. They are a tribal community, they don't care about the USA, they are the graveyard of empires, they know it, and are proud of it. They will take whatever we give them and ask for more, as if we owed it to them. The military objectives of the USA are to destroy the Al-Qaeda terror network, and to make the government of Afghanistan able to stand on its own feet.

This process right now is rife with corruption, and I think it is time to go. I have nothing benevolent to say about their government, or even the Taliban. I wish we could pile the bodies of Islamic Reactionaries high as a mountain. But, with Afghanistan and Pakistan eager for us to leave, I don't want to waste anymore blood and treasure on these people. Every American soldier who is injured defending these barbarians is a tragedy. Most American service members support Ron Paul, the Libertarian-leaning candidate of the Republican Party. I don't, but he is the only one not trying to send us on failing missions which resemble a messy attempt at Imperialism. I'm not opposed to Imperialism as a doctrine, but the way we go about it now, either declare it as such or go home. We are wasting time, and the lives of the best America has to offer, I find it disgusting.

What changes have occurred in the military since you joined?

Since I have joined, they have cut Basic Combat Training from 9 weeks to 7. I disagree with this. I went through BCT, and it shaped me to be the soldier I am today. If anything, it ought to be longer and tougher. Soldiers are getting weaker and lazier each class, this is not what the USA needs. We need soldiers that can and will destroy all enemies in close combat, what we have now are Soldiers that need to be re-taught basic Soldiering skills, such as Land Navigation and proficiency with automatic weapons.

I find it very offensive that I have to even teach my new soldiers this, but it has become the norm. Also, homosexuality is now allowed in the ranks. You may be surprised that I do not disagree with this. The Soldiers already know who is Gay or a Lesbian, this didn't really change our military posture. It has not changed our mission readiness in any quantifiable way. Political correctness; It exists on paper, but we don't really adhere to it.

How are armed forces operations affected by human rights legislation and watchdog/media groups?

We are scrutinized, at every level, every day, in all operations. It has by default lead to a heightened sense of "Professionalism", which is really a synonym for tightening the Rules of Engagement and making it harder for Soldiers to complete their mission. There are several ROE policies in place that are disgusting, including many that include letting the Afghan Taliban shoot first before we respond, this even goes towards Taliban snipers. If a sniper is worth his salt, he will get a kill that first shot, and we still have to wait until he fires. Loosening ROE will lead to more enemy casualties, though in the defense of those scrutinizing us, may lead to a relaxation of the professionalism of our forces. In their defense, I will say that Soldiers violating the rules of war should be prosecuted, though I would claim that the rules of war are quite lax, and very few soldiers are violating them in the first place. Besides, you will be hard pressed to find me sympathizing with enemies that intermingle with the civilian population and do not wear uniforms. I consider them dogs worthy of hanging.

What is your opinion of the armed forces leadership. Do you think they would make better civic leaders than democratic politicians?

I fully think that military leaders would make better politicians. I have the lowest regard for members of the bureaucracy that create policies that do not benefit the Nation. Especially those that have ties to private sector companies, who manipulate the endless pages of the Law to make themselves and their friends rich. They are traitors to our country and should be viewed accordingly. Not all military leaders are stainless in their integrity, but it is easy to see that a military leader is much more prone to honesty and integrity than a lawyer-turned-lawmaker. I wish our Colonels and Generals were more prone to politics, though it is almost unbecoming to dirty our hands in such endeavors.

What is your personal opinion of politicians and/or 'politics people'?

I hate them. I was involved in College politics, I was involved in the political structure that was created to give the students a voice. It absolutely disgusted me. I quit when several members were trying to vote themselves a salary. I stood up, told them the equivalent to them being self-promoting worms, and gave up my resignation.

It made me feel cheapened to be associated with them. Even at the University level, they were out of touch with their constituents, and selfish promoters masked as egalitarian ideologues. I spit on that memory.

What politics is there within the US military? How independent is it?

The military is general apolitical, in the larger political process. I support this, the alternative is something like Commissars in the Soviet Union. I find them to be rather disgusting.

Inside the military, it is incredibly political. Who do you know? Who did you serve under? Who was your colonel? This occurs, especially in the officer class, of which I'm part. I am currently in a rather prestigious unit so I am not too worried about it, though once I transfer in a couple years it will be back into play. I am not opposed to meritocracy, though there is a bit of Nepotism at play.

Be part of a prestigious military family such as the Abrams or the MacArthurs, you will be almost guaranteed promotion. I have a Lt Colonel as an uncle, who served in the same unit as I am in now. I can't say that it is assuring me anything, but I know it helped me get a Commission. This violates my idea of meritocracy, but I will easily plead guilty to using what few connections I had to achieve my goals. That is inherently political.

In what way could the military organ be used for the positive reshaping of American society?

Militarized society leads to self-regulation, self-discipline, and self-reliance. Notice that "Self" is in all of these things. I lean towards an Authoritarian perspective, but a country will fail without the innate discipline needed to prosper. My soldiers do not need to be baby-sat, they do the right thing, they stay in good shape, they eat good food, they pursue good interests. As a society, we need to push the idea of self-reliance, that we are NOT victims. Victim mentality is destroyed Western Civilization. The Fascist society that will prosper is the one that does not need whippings and punishments to enact basic social reform. That reform either has to be in place or yearned for by the populace.

Does the US treat its servicemen well, during and after their service?

The US does, though I will say that it is almost a failure on the part of the Soldier if they do not prosper afterwards. I can tell you that upwards of six months before a Soldier leaves the service, the military will give him several classes on financial responsibility, social mobility, everything that can be used to make a smooth transition to the civilian world.

There are many military personnel who do not prosper outside of military life, and although it is a tragedy, many of them simply were not capable of regular life, and that is why they joined the service in the first place. The biggest regret I have is watching my Soldiers waste their money on consumer goods, and not save it for later. I can advise them all day long, but it is a personal responsibility to take care of yourself. The biggest detraction I can have of the military is that the government takes care of us in unprecedented levels, and though we are worked like dogs, it can lead to a welfare mentality. When many soldiers are pushed back into civilian life, they cannot handle themselves accordingly. The military is constantly trying to fix this, but it has not been accomplished yet.

What do you think of military contractors?

Military contractors are a cancer on the military. They are overpaid, underworked, and generally detract from our mission readiness. The USA is currently cutting up to 80,000 Soldiers and Marines. There are easily 80,000 contractors that can be cut first. Military servicemembers are the absolute cream of the Nation, and should not be cast out so lazy, fat civilians can make more money than the average Captain. It is disgusting and almost traitorous to allow them to work while casting out Servicemembers

What do you think of the US mission in Afghanistan? Where do you see it in five years?

Afghanistan is not a nation-state. It shouldn't even have the name Afghanistan, which implies that it is a monogamous group of people. It is the name of the area between several civilized areas, such as Iran or Pakistan.

The US in Afghanistan in five years? We ought be long gone. Give them 20,000 automatic rifles, let them go. I would prefer Drone bases in surrounding countries, and a small contingent of Special Forces operatives, over the massive occupancy we currently have. For what? Afghan tribal leaders play us as fools, switching between us and Taliban forces, depending on who can give them the most resources.

I would like to kill all theocratic reactionaries and cover them in pork, but that will never happen. We cannot forever protect the rights of women and children, and it shouldn't be our job to make sure little school girls can learn to read. These barbarians will not allow it, we should kill as many as we can in the time frame allowed, aid the Federal Government of Afghanistan as far as a reasonable amount of money and arms goes, and come home. We will never civilize these barbarians.

If you were in charge of US strategic and foreign policy what would you do?

I would create an international, multi-lateral conclusion to the problems of Cuba and North Korea, two relics of the 20th century. I want to invade North Korea, with China's blessing, and bring a closure to that autocratic, failure of a regime.

I am currently trying to be stationed in Korea so I could take part in that conflict, should it arise. Cuba is also ripe for the destruction of Marxism, and I think there would be few, if any repercussions to the destruction of that regime. I have no tolerance or love for Marxism, and it should be eradicated to the best of our abilities.

Other countries, such as China or Russia, should be dealt with on a level playing field. There are such things as Spheres of Influence, that is Realpolitik, and not going away. Leave the Americas and Western Europe to us, I care very little if they are holding sway in Kyrgyzstan or Tibet. Pragmatism should be the mantle of USA and Western foreign policy. In that sense, we have nothing to gain from creating hostilities over countries that offer us no benefit.

What is your opinion of the United States, what parts of it work and don't work? Do you still support it? Why?

The United States of America is still the greatest country in the world. The end of the Cold War has lead to something of an identity crises in the foreign affairs area. The wars in Afghanistan and Iraq were both voluntary and a show of force and indecisiveness in this new world. Hopefully the negative and positive lessons learned from both of these conflicts will help resolute the next quarter of the century.

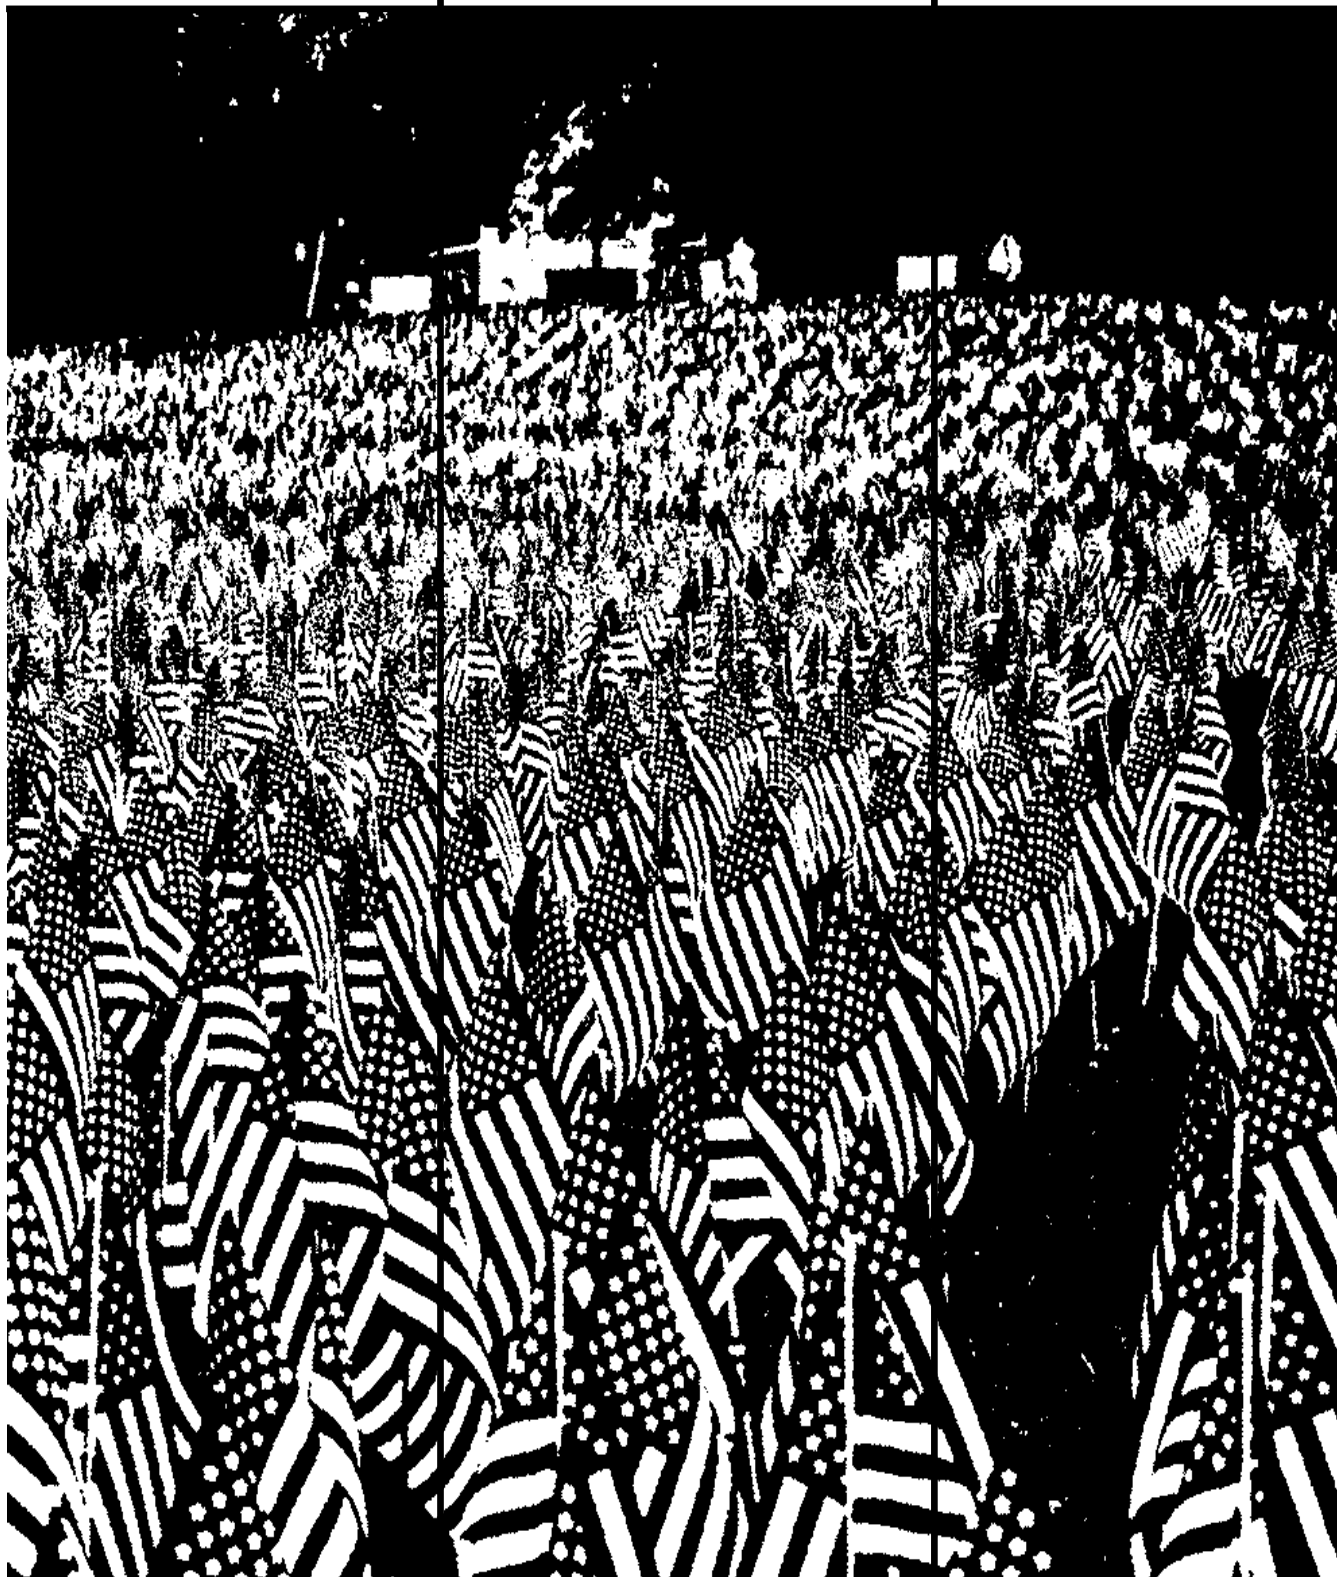

Socially, the USA is facing various culture wars, with a very Christian Reactionary faction versus a Liberal Capitalist faction. I oppose both. I want a slightly socially liberal faction with militant values. I don't care about the base issues of Homosexuality or Drug use. I don't think the Drug War has worked. I want a society who's values abhor drug use. The use of the government to lock up marijuana users is just using up valuable resources.

My value system should reflect the military, and it should be pushed onto the populace, but I'm loathe to use a whip and chain to enforce it. People need to be shown the inherent rationality and goodness of Fascist values, but if not, let the gangrene take hold of them, isolate it from good society and let it collapse on its own merits.

Do you recommend a career in the armed forces? Do you have any advice to give?

I do, without hesitation or doubt. I can assure you, no matter your country of origin, no matter your political affiliation, if you join the Military for any period of time, you will spend the rest of your life reminiscing about it.

You have your entire life to be a nobody, you should spend at least a portion of it serving your country. Even the lowest Private gets his hand shaken in the Airport, not even the highest Financier gets that privilege. There is absolutely nothing more honorable than being a Veteran

The Conclusion

Take a look around the western world and you'll find (especially in our own nation) that the banana republics are run by a bunch of money juggling cultural Marxists and race traitor gentiles pushing their profit motive down the throats of the Occidental Races. They've declared war and have waged it for sixty years; a war of money, a war of globalization, secularism, pornography, and faggotry. They've crossed the lines with the trippy hippy love revolution of the sixties and NOW they are telling us that what is between your legs does not count as your gender, they are telling YOU that YOUR way of life that was bestowed upon you by generations upon generations of tradition is wrong because, JUST BECAUSE, it hurts some autistic fag's feelings.

They are telling you that YOU are the idiot for going to church. They are telling YOU that you are a reactionary for supporting traditional family values. They are telling your children that they have to accept some cross-dressing creeper as being a normal human being.

They are saying that your blood and nation are irrelevant and artificial constructs used by some old rich oligarchy to keep you under their thumb while at the same time not admitting that THEY are that old rich oligarchy who've sold out to snot-nosed antifa hipsters and media conglomerates.

They have crossed the line and they have their pink boots on your neck. They are pumping your nation with opiates while you watch their television programs, look at Faux, they're supposed to be the voice of the Right and the Moral Minority in the US but at the same time they are exposing your children to trash television like "Glee!" There, I've broken the thin veil they've built in front of themselves.

Now ask yourself something. Do you want to see those beautiful Aryan children at your church grow up to be freaks, faggots, drunks, and junkies? Would you like to send our Hispanic cousins home again? Do you want to live in a world where pedophiles and cross dressers are the norm? They're already a fad.

The days of movements reflecting the traditional wholesome American Family are D-E-A-D, and was even then in steep decline. Robert Steed who played Mike Brady in America's ideal family, the Brady Bunch was a butt-pirate who died of AIDS. I think this allegory speaks for itself. But what can you do? You're just a single faceless, voiceless, anonymous in a world of evil. If you are reading this you are already taking the first step.

Are you tired of being ostracized because you've refused to buy the liberal pig bile that drugs are ok? Are you not angry by the way we're collapsing?

We demand real revolutionary change, and WE declare war on this cosmopolitan society. They crossed the line and they pushed us to the edge. From the Italian Squadristi to Breivik our dream has not died and we will fight tooth and nail until we win. As long as there is Capitalism and Communism, Fascism will always be a reality.

Spread Reaktion! Jump a stoner at a concert, throw a rock through a CPUSA HQ window, voice your opinion from a megaphone downtown of your state's capital. If push comes to shove and civil war breaks out don't be afraid to grab a gun. In fact, don't be afraid to give up your salvation for the greater good of your people and nation, do this and you shall be entombed in the hearts of the righteous as a hero. This war of ours shall feed itself on the blood of the addicts, pedophiles, lobbyists, marxists and any other dissenter who gets in our path. There will be blood and there will be martyrs, rise up and bring this underground reality to fruition for the sake of those little Aryan children at your church, for that young couple struggling to raise a family, for all those who died that we may live free.

Death to the world!

Hail and Farewell!
